Arkansas Utility Sues Witness For Slander

Seeks $2 Million In Power Battle

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP) — An Arkansas utility today hurled a two million dollar slander suit against a witness in the Dixon-Yates power controversy — an action which prompted Sen. Langer (R-ND) to declare angrily he wouldn't allow any of his witnesses to be "bluffed, scared or intimidated."

The Arkansas Power & Light Co. filed the suit in Little Rock against Arthur E. McLean, a Little Rock banker who testified yesterday that the utility was "the most corrupt and ruthless corporation that ever operated within the bounds of the state."

Made On Statements

Arkansas Power officials indicated the suit was made on past statements made by McLean, who has been at odds with the utility for years.

Pounding the table at a public hearing, Langer exclaimed:

"One thing is sure—as long as I'm chairman of this subcommittee we're not going to be bluffed, scared or intimidated, and we are not going to allow Dixon-Yates or any one else to bluff, scare or intimidate witnesses."

The senator, a critic of the Dixon-Yates contract, said that if it is legally possible to do so he will assign Sidney Davis, the subcommittee's chief counsel, to defend McLean against the slander charges.

Davis said he would gladly offer his services if it developed that the suit was any sort of reprisal for the banker's testimony. He said the subcommittee has had some difficulty obtaining witnesses, adding that there have been indications that "others would like to testify but are afraid to."

Davis assured all witnesses that the Senate group "will not sit idly by" and allow them to be intimidated.

Welcomes Suit

McLean said he welcomed the suit.

"They are asking for the works—they're going to get it," he said.

McLean, president of the Commercial National Bank in Little Rock, said his defense will be an effort to prove the truth of what he has said about Arkansas Power & Light over a period of some years.

Langer's outburst came near the end of a hearing in which a former governor of Arkansas, Sidney McMath, testified the utility was "The most powerful political influence in Arkansas . . . an unhealthy influence, not conducive to good government."

Lawyer Calls Judge Biased For Lattimore

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—In a dramatic courtroom scene, U. S. Atty. Leo A. Rover today looked U. S. Dist. Judge Luther W. Youngdahl in the face and told him he was "slanted" in favor of Owen Lattimore and against the government.

"If we are to have continued confidence in impartial justice in America, . . . I ask you under the law and the fundamental concepts of American democracy to withdraw from the case," Rover said. The judge had criticized, and thrown out, some of the original perjury charges against Lattimore.

Thurman Arnold, one of Lattimore's lawyers, said Rover, by accusing Youngdahl of bias and prejudice, was attempting "to manipulate the administration of justice" and trying "to subordinate the judiciary to the prosecuting arm of the government."

Youngdahl, a big, ruggedly handsome man, listened impassively as Rover and Arnold argued back and forth on whether he should disqualify himself.

Lattimore and his wife, Eleanor, listened from the spectator section. He is the controversial Far Eastern affairs specialist accused of lying to a Senate Committee which branded him a promoter of Communist causes.

In the end, Judge Youngdahl said he will announce his ruling in a formal order, but did not say when.

Technically, today's arguments were on various motions growing out of an affidavit of "personal bias and prejudice" filed by Rover against Youngdahl Oct. 13, and not on the affidavit itself. But they overflowed to take in almost everything connected with the case.

Arnold said, for example, that a two-count perjury indictment recently returned against Lattimore was "far more indefinite and vague" than the original indictment returned in December 1952.

Pamphlets Attack Byrd's Divorce

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 22 (AP)—A crudely reproduced, one-page leaflet on Democrat H. C. Byrd's 1935 divorce was added today to the growing list of mysterious publications appearing during Maryland's fierce election campaign.

The unsigned piece of literature turned up in the Anne Arundel County Courthouse here amid reports 200,000 were ready for distribution.

Under the heading "The Facts" the sheet lists 15 questions and answers purported to be excerpts from the transcript of testimony in Nevada divorce proceedings filed by Mrs. Kate Turnbull Byrd on Jan. 21, 1935. She charged extreme cruelty.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22 (AP) — James W. (Dad) Montee celebrated his 92nd birthday today by piloting three generations of his family on an airplane ride.

Montee learned to fly when he was 60 and has been celebrating his birthdays in this manner since then.

Sheppard Jury Contains Seven Women, 5 Men

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22 (AP) — The jury box was filled for the first time late today in the first degree murder trial of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, after a sultry young brunette's loose tongue slowed things up.

The trial then was recessed until Monday morning.

The 12th juror seated was Mrs. Luella Williams, a divorcee and mother of four grown children. She was the first Negro seated. The tentative jury lineup consists of seven women and five men.

The defense and the state each has six peremptory challenges.

That means each can dismiss up to six seated jurors apiece, without giving any reason whatsoever. The places of any dismissed juror must then be refilled.

Previously, a juror could be dismissed only for some specific reason—such as opposition to capital punishment, poor health, or a fixed opinion on Sheppard's guilt or innocence.

Earlier, proceedings were enlivened by pretty Mrs. Bette Marie Parker, who exposed herself to the risk of a contempt citation by chatting about Sheppard with friends and relatives this week.

However, her only punishment was dismissal from the jury panel after she had all but qualified.

The 28-year-old General Electric Co. inspector admitted she had discussed the case with scores of persons, even after the trial judge had sworn all prospective jurors to silence.

Dr. Sheppard is on trial in the July 4 slaying of his blonde wife, Marilyn, 31. She was beaten to death in her bedroom. Mrs. Sheppard was four months pregnant.

The handsome 30-year-old osteopath has pleaded innocent. He claimed a bushy-haired man invaded the lakefront Sheppard home and knocked him unconscious when he tried to aid Marilyn.

O'Dwyer To Return To New York Soon

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22 (AP)—A close friend of William O'Dwyer said today that the former New York mayor and ambassador to Mexico "definitely intends to return to New York," but that the date is still uncertain.

At a press conference last Saturday, O'Dwyer said there was no criminal charge outstanding against him after long investigations into reports of corruption in his administration while mayor.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 22 (AP)—Shots will be felt soon throughout the Atlantic Fleet.

An influenza vaccine will be administered to the fleet's 200,000 officers and men by Nov. 15, fleet headquarters announced today.

Influenza is one of the chief ailments among fleet personnel during the winter months. Each case spends an average of six days on the sick list.

Increase Of Over 2,800,000 Votes Seen During Election

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Despite widespread reports of voter apathy, state election and party officials look for a probable vote on Nov. 2 of around 45,115,000, an increase of 2,800,000 over the previous record for a midterm election, in 1950.

These same officials estimated for the Associated Press that 74,879,146 persons are eligible to vote for congressional and state candidates this year. This also is a record for a nonpresidential election year, being 4,924,668 higher than the 1950 qualified voter total, the last top.

It is normal, however, for both registrations and the vote to climb from one midterm to the next because of the growth in "potential" voter population.

The Census Bureau estimates the nation's vote potential — civilians 21 years of age and over — has climbed 3,200,000 since 1950 to 100,223,000. This is exclusive of an estimated 2,500,000 persons over 21 in the armed forces.

But it is interesting to note, in view of reports that voters generally are not excited over upcoming contests, that the 1954 probable vote estimate is around 60 per cent of the number estimated to be qualified to cast ballots, the same ratio as in 1950.

Both parties are plugging for a large vote Nov. 2 on the theory that a full turnout will help their cause. Democrats feel more voters mean a bigger protest vote. Republicans believe a good turnout spells a vote of confidence in the administration.

If the estimates of the probable vote are borne out, 39 states will top their 1950 total for House candidates, and 34 will show gains over their highest 1950 figure.

The nine states estimating smaller votes compared with their aggregate House ballots four years ago are Idaho, Indiana, Missouri, Ohio, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin. The 14 figuring lower balloting in contrast with their highest turnout in 1950 are Arizona, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Knight Asks Oil Companies To Shut Down

Hopes Test Will Aid Battle Of Smog But Concerns May Refuse

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22 (AP)—Gov. Goodwin Knight made a dramatic appeal today for suspension of gasoline refining here to determine its effects on smog.

The first of 25 oil firms to reply rejected the proposal.

Union Oil Co. of California telegraphed the governor that his request is "unreasonable" and "not based on facts."

The firm said it will continue to obey all smog laws but it "cannot and will not accede to your request for voluntary suspension of production."

Other oil company executives went into huddles to determine their course of action.

Shut Down Indefinitely

Knight asked the firms this morning to shut down indefinitely "in the public interest" to see if the smog situation improves. Today was the 17th straight day of eye-stinging air pollution, one of the longest attacks on record.

"Shutting down the refinery would not result in reducing smog unless the shutdown was accompanied by a fortunate change in the meteorological conditions . . . over the Los Angeles Basin," the oil company stated.

"I am appealing to the oil companies to close down voluntarily in the public interest," Knight said, "for such a period as will permit an adequate test of the amount of smog coming from the manufacture of gasoline and other petroleum products in this country."

His plea was for an immediate suspension of production by the 25 refineries in this area which process 687,500 barrels of crude oil daily.

The oil industry, long under fire by criticis who claim refinery contributions to smog should be halted, employs 54,900 workers in this area and had a 1953 payroll of 263 million dollars.

17th Straight Day

Today was the 17th straight day of eye-stinging smog in Los Angeles.

The main source of hydrocarbons is the exhausts of the county's two million autos, which contribute 1,100 tons daily.

The refineries have spent 18 million dollars on smog control devices and have largely eliminated sulphur dioxide emissions, once regarded as smog's main irritant.

Unemployed Dip Seen By Mitchell

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Oct. 22 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Mitchell said today that unemployment will drop below three million persons this month for the first time this year.

Some 3,100,000 were reported out of work in September. Peak for the year was 3,725,000 last March.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks announced also that a sampling of industry opinion, made at the meeting of his Business Advisory Council here, indicates for 1955 "a slightly better year than 1954" in business activity, production and employment.

A report of BAC's economic policy committee, headed by Dean Donald K. David of the Harvard Graduate School of Business, foresaw a "prudent prosperity" and highly competitive markets.

Some of the nearly 100 corporation heads who make up BAC told reporters privately they personally expect the present pickup in activity to carry 1955 ahead of record 1953.

Sheppard's Mother Won't Attend Trial

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22 (AP)—Mrs. Richard A. Sheppard, 65, who is suffering from heart trouble, said today she would stay away entirely from the murder trial of her son, Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard.

The white haired mother told a reporter that "If I thought there were anything I could do to help, I would do it" and added that "I feel I can do more by keeping my strength here at home."

Prison Trouble Again

Ralph N. Eidson, left, Warden of the Missouri State Penitentiary at Jefferson City, ushers into the prison city police and highway patrolmen after a reported 600 felons created a disturbance in a dining room yesterday at noon. An hour later, prison officials said everything was under control. It was one month after a disastrous multi-million dollar riot occurred at the same prison.

Status Unclear On Dock Strike After 19th Day

LONDON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Hopes of peace in Britain's crippling waterfront strike rose and then fell tonight.

The showdown weekend began with the situation unclear.

The stoppage by more than 44,000 dock workers in the major ports of Britain now stretches over 19 days. More than 300 million dollars worth of exports and imports lie idle on the docks and in some 320 silent ships. Foodstuffs cargoes are rotting. The strike has the enthusiastic backing of the Communists.

Minister of Labor Sir Walter Monckton today gave the strikers until Monday morning to go back to work—or the Churchill government will call out troops to move vital materials.

Through most of the past 24 hours feeling had mounted that a truce was at hand. This mood was bolstered by an atmosphere of goodwill between strikers and management during a government court of inquiry hearing which adjourned tonight to consider material placed before it.

But the mood suddenly changed in the evening hours.

The strikers' spokesman declared after the board of inquiry had adjourned: "All I can say is that we have seen the members of the inquiry and may be seeing them again next week if they send for us."

Asked if any developments were likely in the strike situation over the weekend, he replied: "As I cannot see into the future, brother, I cannot tell you."

Monckton's statement that troops would be called by Monday was made in the House of Commons. He said the government has a "primary and paramount duty to protect the life and work of the nation. On this they are determined."

Only 11,000 of the strikers have support of their union—the Independent National Amalgamated Stevedore and Dockers Union. The other strikers are members of the huge Transport and General Workers Union whose leaders have charged the strike is Communist-inspired.

The strike began over objection to compulsory overtime.

Heart Attack Claims Life Of Theater Tycoon

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22 (AP)—A heart attack today took the life of Charles P. Skouras, the Greek immigrant who parlayed pennies from a busboy's wages into a theatrical salary that was the nation's highest in 1947 and 1948.

The death of the 65-year-old theater tycoon thus broke up a trio of Greek immigrant brothers who started with a decrepit St. Louis nickelodeon and built a theatrical empire that included such holdings as 500 movie houses and 20th Century-Fox studios.

Skouras, big brother of the family, suffered three major heart attacks in recent years. The third last Sunday put him in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital and he seemed to be rallying until a major coronary occlusion at 11:20 a. m. today.

Felons Again Riot At Missouri Prison

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 22 (AP)—A spur of the moment demonstration against prison food flared and died during the noon hour today at Missouri's state penitentiary—scene of a disastrous multimillon dollar riot just a month ago.

Thomas E. Whitecotton director of corrections, said no one was injured, no one was threatened and no damage was done by some 500 to 600 prisoners who trooped out of one of the three dining halls.

An hour after the disturbance broke out, setting off an alert that sent highway patrolmen of this area and Jefferson City police rushing to the prison, officials reported the situation was under control.

Whitecotton gave this account of the incident:

Before all of the inmates had entered the dining room, one convict overturned his plate and complained loudly about the menu. Others, perhaps a dozen, joined him quickly.

One guard was splattered with food.

The convicts walked out of the building and gathered in the Lobby A Cell Building — the central point of rioting activity last Sept. 22—and shouted demands for better food.

Whitecotton listed this menu for today's noon meal:

Whitecotton said meat in some form is served to the prisoners every day.

As the convicts milled about in their Cell Block Lobby today, Whitecotton and Warden Ralph Eidson went to the cell building and talked to the prisoners. The convicts agreed to being locked up once more.

Whitecotton said he believed the demonstration was just an unplanned flash disturbance. He said he thought recent public reports from former convicts and former prison employes about "poor prison food" undoubtedly helped fire the disturbance.

Dulles Believes Success Miracle

PARIS, Oct. 22 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told a news conference tonight the achievements of Western diplomacy during the last seven weeks were "a near miracle."

"Seven weeks ago there was a crisis of almost terrifying proportions," he said. "The hope of the European Defense Community had been shattered. It seemed at the time hopelessly shattered. What has been done since then was a near miracle.

"It showed an amazing ability on the part of European statesmen to distinguish primary from secondary considerations and to make concessions on the matters of secondary importance."

The matters of primary importance were, he said, security, peace and freedom.

He praised the leaders of France, West Germany and Britain who took part in the London and Paris meetings for writing a new chapter in history. The results had seemed impossible in advance, he said.

More Md. Counties To Get SBA Relief

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—All of Delaware and seven more Maryland counties were designated by the Small Business Administration today as areas eligible for loans to repair hurricane damage to homes and businesses.

Earlier, Maryland's nine Eastern Shore Counties were declared eligible for rehabilitation aid.

Tests Should Determine If Person Must Retire At 65

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22 (AP) — A heart specialist today called for better tests of your "biological age," to determine if you really should be forced onto the retirement shelf at 65.

Millions of Americans can keep on being productive after 65, and work is often good for their health, as well as good for the nation, said Dr. Irving S. Wright of New York. Many persons who are forced into inactivity often decline rapidly in health, he said.

Biological age means the state of your health and capacities rather than age in years. Some people are biologically old at 45, others still young at 65, he said.

"It is not easy to determine biological age. There is a real need for better methods to measure physical and mental disabilities," Dr. Wright told a panel discussion on retirement problems, at the annual meeting of the Council for High Blood Pressure Research, American Heart Assn.

He said doctors are interested in retirement problems because heart and blood vessels diseases are often a cause of retirement, and because doctors treat the emotional and physical problems of people shelved by compulsory retirement rules.

Dr. Wright, a past president of the association, said probably nearly half of the 13 million Americans now over 65 could continue to be productive and active, with benefit to their health and the nation's productivity.

He said one suggestion for using them is to keep executives busy in consultative work after 65.

He declared the world would have been the loser if compulsory retirement "had stopped the thinking and productivity" of such men as Winston Churchill, Bernard Baruch, Albert Einstein and Arturo Toscanini.

NATO Entry Approved But Strikes Snag

Mendes-France Talks With Adenauer, No Decision Is Reached

PARIS, Saturday, Oct. 23 (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France of France and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer conferred until 2:50 a.m. today in an effort to remove the Saar roadblock to Germany's entry into the Atlantic alliance.

The 14 NATO nations voted yesterday to invite Western Germany to share as a full partner in their highest military councils and diplomatic secrets. Almost immediately however, the historic decision became snagged on the bitter and ancient rivalry between Teuton and Gaul over the Saarland.

France Won't Sign

Premier Mendes-France, backed up by a formal decision of his Cabinet, announced he would not sign the agreement admitting West Germany, or any of the other agreements being reached here on Western defense, until the Saar dispute was settled.

British Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden, in a last-minute effort to smooth over the difficulty, invited Adenauer and Mendes-France to a dinner conference.

They talked for five hours at the British Embassy, and then the two diplomats announced only that they had been able to make progress on some political points, very little on economic phases. They said they would meet again at 11:30 (5:30 a.m., EST) today at the French Premier's office.

At that time they will again attempt to come to an agreement that will permit the signing of the various accords, a ceremony scheduled to take place at 2:45 p.m.

Mendes-France said there was good will on both sides but that they had to stop their talks for lack of technical information.

The deadlock over a piece of territory scarcely bigger than a big Texas ranch threatened to wreck the carefully laid plans to have three important new agreements signed tomorrow afternoon—agreements designed to make Western Germany the 15th member of NATO and to tie Western European and American powers together in a friendly cultural, military and political family.

Enormous Pressure Brought

Enormous pressure was being brought on both countries to come to an agreement on sharing the coal and steel riches of the Saar Valley where about a million people live. They were made grimly aware in a late afternoon session of the North Atlantic Treaty Council that their dispute threatened to slow down or wreck four years of effort to ally Germany firmly with the West.

But the national pride and pocketbook are involved on both sides.

Both Mendes-France and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer were backed by their parliaments, which are demanding the most possible out of any deal. Each faced the danger that if he didn't get enough his parliament might repudiate the whole package of agreements.

Big Powers Okay New Arms Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—In their first unanimous action on disarmament since 1946, the big Western Powers, Canada and the Soviet Union today agreed on a plan for new secret talks on disarmament and prohibition of atomic and hydrogen bombs.

It appeared certain that the 60-nation Political Committee of the U.N. Assembly will approve the resolution laid before it by the delegations of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and the Soviet Union and the talks will begin soon among these powers.

Everyone agrees, however, that these negotiations face a long and hard road, with no guarantee of eventual agreement between East and West on these tremendous problems.

David M. Johnson, Canadian delegate, voiced this feeling in a speech announcing the agreement and warning against "hasty or irresponsible optimism."

He said the gap between East and West, especially on a method of control of any disarmament system, remains very wide and deep.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Despite widespread reports of voter apathy, state election and party officials look for a probable vote on Nov. 2 of around 45,115,000, an increase of 2,800,000 over the previous record for a midterm election, in 1950.

These same officials estimated for the Associated Press that 74,879,146 persons are eligible to vote for congressional and state candidates this year. This also is a record for a nonpresidential election year, being 4,924,668 higher than the 1950 qualified voter total, the last top.

It is normal, however, for both registrations and the vote to climb from one midterm to the next because of the growth in "potential" voter population.

The Census Bureau estimates the nation's vote potential — civilians 21 years of age and over — has climbed 3,200,000 since 1950 to 100,223,000. This is exclusive of an estimated 2,500,000 persons over 21 in the armed forces.

But it is interesting to note, in view of reports that voters generally are not excited over upcoming contests, that the 1954 probable vote estimate is around 60 per cent of the number estimated to be qualified to cast ballots, the same ratio as in 1950.

Both parties are plugging for a large vote Nov. 2 on the theory that a full turnout will help their cause. Democrats feel more voters mean a bigger protest vote. Republicans believe a good turnout spells a vote of confidence in the administration.

If the estimates of the probable vote are borne out, 39 states will top their 1950 total for House candidates, and 34 will show gains over their highest 1950 figure.

The nine states estimating smaller votes compared with their aggregate House ballots four years ago are Idaho, Indiana, Missouri, Ohio, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin. The 14 figuring lower balloting in contrast with their highest turnout in 1950 are Arizona, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Knight Asks Oil Companies To Shut Down

Hopes Test Will Aid Battle Of Smog But Concerns May Refuse

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22 (AP)—Gov. Goodwin Knight made a dramatic appeal today for suspension of gasoline refining here to determine its effects on smog.

The first of 25 oil firms to reply rejected the proposal.

Union Oil Co. of California telegraphed the governor that his request is "unreasonable" and "not based on facts."

The firm said it will continue to obey all smog laws but it "cannot and will not accede to your request for voluntary suspension of production."

Other oil company executives went into huddles to determine their course of action.

Shut Down Indefinitely

Knight asked the firms this morning to shut down indefinitely "in the public interest" to see if the smog situation improves. Today was the 17th straight day of eye-stinging air pollution, one of the longest attacks on record.

"Shutting down the refinery would not result in reducing smog unless the shutdown was accompanied by a fortunate change in the meteorological conditions . . . over the Los Angeles Basin," the oil company stated.

"I am appealing to the oil companies to close down voluntarily in the public interest," Knight said, "for such a period as will permit an adequate test of the amount of smog coming from the manufacture of gasoline and other petroleum products in this country."

His plea was for an immediate suspension of production by the 25 refineries in this area which process 687,500 barrels of crude oil daily.

The oil industry, long under fire by criticis who claim refinery contributions to smog should be halted, employs 54,900 workers in this area and had a 1953 payroll of 263 million dollars.

17th Straight Day

Today was the 17th straight day of eye-stinging smog in Los Angeles.

The main source of hydrocarbons is the exhausts of the county's two million autos, which contribute 1,100 tons daily.

The refineries have spent 18 million dollars on smog control devices and have largely eliminated sulphur dioxide emissions, once regarded as smog's main irritant.

Unemployed Dip Seen By Mitchell

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Oct. 22 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Mitchell said today that unemployment will drop below three million persons this month for the first time this year.

Some 3,100,000 were reported out of work in September. Peak for the year was 3,725,000 last March.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks announced also that a sampling of industry opinion, made at the meeting of his Business Advisory Council here, indicates for 1955 "a slightly better year than 1954" in business activity, production and employment.

A report of BAC's economic policy committee, headed by Dean Donald K. David of the Harvard Graduate School of Business, foresaw a "prudent prosperity" and highly competitive markets.

Some of the nearly 100 corporation heads who make up BAC told reporters privately they personally expect the present pickup in activity to carry 1955 ahead of record 1953.

Prison Trouble Again

Ralph N. Eidson, left, Warden of the Missouri State Penitentiary at Jefferson City, ushers into the prison city police and highway patrolmen after a reported 600 felons created a disturbance in a dining room yesterday at noon. An hour later, prison officials said, everything was under control. It was one month after a disastrous multi-million dollar riot occurred at the same prison.

Status Unclear On Dock Strike After 19th Day

LONDON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Hopes of peace in Britain's crippling waterfront strike rose and then fell tonight.

The showdown weekend began with the situation unclear.

The stoppage by more than 44,000 dock workers in the major ports of Britain now stretches over 19 days. More than 300 million dollars worth of exports and imports lie idle on the docks and in some 320 silent ships. Foodstuffs cargoes are rotting. The strike has the enthusiastic backing of the Communists.

Minister of Labor Sir Walter Monckton today gave the strikers until Monday morning to go back to work—or the Churchill government will call out troops to move vital materials.

Through most of the past 24 hours feeling had mounted that a truce was at hand. This mood was bolstered by an atmosphere of goodwill between strikers and management during a government court of inquiry hearing which adjourned tonight to consider material placed before it.

But the mood suddenly changed in the evening hours.

The strikers' spokesman declared after the board of inquiry had adjourned: "All I can say is that we have seen the members of the inquiry and may be seeing them again next week if they send for us."

Asked if any developments were likely in the strike situation over the weekend, he replied: "As I cannot see into the future, brother, I cannot tell you."

Monckton's statement that troops would be called by Monday was made in the House of Commons. He said the government has a "primary and paramount duty to protect the life and work of the nation. On this they are determined."

Only 11,000 of the strikers have support of their union—the Independent National Amalgamated Stevedore and Dockers Union. The other strikers are members of the huge Transport and General Workers Union whose leaders have charged the strike is Communist-inspired.

The strike began over objection to compulsory overtime.

Heart Attack Claims Life Of Theater Tycoon

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22 (AP)—A heart attack today took the life of Charles P. Skouras, the Greek immigrant who parlayed pennies from a busboy's wages into a theatrical salary that was the nation's highest in 1947 and 1948.

The death of the 65-year-old theater tycoon thus broke up a trio of Greek immigrant brothers who started with a decrepit St. Louis nickelodeon and built a theatrical empire that included such holdings as 500 movie houses and 20th Century-Fox studios.

Skouras, big brother of the family, suffered three major heart attacks in recent years. The third last Sunday put him in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital and he seemed to be rallying until a major coronary occlusion at 11:20 a. m. today.

Felons Again Riot At Missouri Prison

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 22 (AP)—A spur of the moment demonstration against prison food flared and died during the noon hour today at Missouri's state penitentiary—scene of a disastrous multimillion dollar riot just a month ago.

Thomas E. Whitecotton director of corrections, said no one was injured, no one was threatened and no damage was done by some 500 to 600 prisoners who trooped out of one of the three dining halls.

An hour after the disturbance broke out, setting off an alert that sent highway patrolmen of this area and Jefferson City police rushing to the prison, officials reported the situation was under control.

Whitecotton gave this account of the incident:

Before all of the inmates had entered the dining room, one convict overturned his plate and complained loudly about the menu. Others, perhaps a dozen, joined him quickly.

One guard was splattered with food.

The convicts walked out of the building and gathered in the Lobby A Cell Building — the central point of rioting activity last Sept. 22—and shouted demands for better food.

Whitecotton listed this menu for today's noon meal:

Whitecotton said meat in some form is served to the prisoners every day.

As the convicts milled about in their Cell Block Lobby today, Whitecotton and Warden Ralph Eidson went to the cell building and talked to the prisoners. The convicts agreed to being locked up once more.

Whitecotton said he believed the demonstration was just an unplanned flash disturbance. He said he thought recent public reports from former convicts and former prison employes about "poor prison food" undoubtedly helped fire the disturbance.

Dulles Believes Success Miracle

PARIS, Oct. 22 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told a news conference tonight the achievements of Western diplomacy during the last seven weeks were "a near miracle."

"Seven weeks ago there was a crisis of almost terrifying proportions," he said. "The hope of the European Defense Community had been shattered. It seemed at the time hopelessly shattered. What has been done since then was a near miracle.

"It showed an amazing ability on the part of European statesmen to distinguish primary from secondary considerations and to make concessions on the matters of secondary importance."

The matters of primary importance were, he said, security, peace and freedom.

He praised the leaders of France, West Germany and Britain who took part in the London and Paris meetings for writing a new chapter in history. The results had seemed impossible in advance, he said.

More Md. Counties To Get SBA Relief

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—All of Delaware and seven more Maryland counties were designated by the Small Business Administration today as areas eligible for loans to repair hurricane damage to homes and businesses.

Earlier, Maryland's nine Eastern Shore Counties were declared eligible for rehabilitation aid.

Tests Should Determine If Person Must Retire At 65

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22 (AP) — A heart specialist today called for better tests of your "biological age," to determine if you really should be forced onto the retirement shelf at 65.

Millions of Americans can keep on being productive after 65, and work is often good for their health, as well as good for the nation, said Dr. Irving S. Wright of New York. Many persons who are forced into inactivity often decline rapidly in health, he said.

Biological age means the state of your health and capacities rather than age in years. Some people are biologically old at 45, others still young at 65, he said.

"It is not easy to determine biological age. There is a real need for better methods to measure physical and mental disabilities," Dr. Wright told a panel discussion on retirement problems, at the annual meeting of the Council for High Blood Pressure Research, American Heart Assn.

He said doctors are interested in retirement problems because heart and blood vessels diseases are often a cause of retirement, and because doctors treat the emotional and physical problems of people shelved by compulsory retirement rules.

Dr. Wright, a past president of the association, said probably nearly half of the 13 million Americans now over 65 could continue to be productive and active, with benefit to their health and the nation's productivity.

He said one suggestion for using them is to keep executives busy in consultative work after 65.

He declared the world would have been the loser if compulsory retirement "had stopped the thinking and productivity" of such men as Winston Churchill, Bernard Baruch, Albert Einstein and Arturo Toscanini.

NATO Entry Approved But Strikes Snag

Mendes-France Talks With Adenauer, No Decision Is Reached

PARIS, Saturday, Oct. 23 (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France of France and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer conferred until 2:50 a.m. today in an effort to remove the Saar roadblock to Germany's entry into the Atlantic alliance.

The 14 NATO nations voted yesterday to invite Western Germany to share as a full partner in their highest military councils and diplomatic secrets. Almost immediately however, the historic decision became snagged on the bitter and ancient rivalry between Teuton and Gaul over the Saarland.

France Won't Sign

Premier Mendes-France, backed up by a formal decision of his Cabinet, announced he would not sign the agreement admitting West Germany, or any of the other agreements being reached here on Western defense, until the Saar dispute was settled.

British Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden, in a last-minute effort to smooth over the difficulty, invited Adenauer and Mendes-France to a dinner conference.

They talked for five hours at the British Embassy, and then the two diplomats announced only that they had been able to make progress on some political points, very little on economic phases. They said they would meet again at 11:30 (5:30 a.m., EST) today at the French Premier's office.

At that time they will again attempt to come to an agreement that will permit the signing of the various accords, a ceremony scheduled to take place at 2:45 p.m.

Mendes-France said there was good will on both sides but that they had to stop their talks for lack of technical information.

The deadlock over a piece of territory scarcely bigger than a big Texas ranch threatened to wreck the carefully laid plans to have three important new agreements signed tomorrow afternoon—agreements designed to make Western Germany the 15th member of NATO and to tie Western European and American powers together in a friendly cultural, military and political family.

Enormous Pressure Brought

Enormous pressure was being brought on both countries to come to an agreement on sharing the coal and steel riches of the Saar Valley where about a million people live. They were made grimly aware in a late afternoon session of the North Atlantic Treaty Council that their dispute threatened to slow down or wreck four years of effort to ally Germany firmly with the West.

But the national pride and pocketbook are involved on both sides.

Both Mendes-France and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer were backed by their parliaments, which are demanding the most possible out of any deal. Each faced the danger that if he didn't get enough his parliament might repudiate the whole package of agreements.

Big Powers Okay New Arms Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—In their first unanimous action on disarmament since 1946, the big Western Powers, Canada and the Soviet Union today agreed on a plan for new secret talks on disarmament and prohibition of atomic and hydrogen bombs.

It appeared certain that the 60-nation Political Committee of the U.N. Assembly will approve the resolution laid before it by the delegations of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and the Soviet Union and the talks will begin soon among these powers.

Everyone agrees, however, that these negotiations face a long and hard road, with no guarantee of eventual agreement between East and West on these tremendous problems.

David M. Johnson, Canadian delegate, voiced this feeling in a speech announcing the agreement and warning against "hasty or irresponsible optimism."

He said the gap between East and West, especially on a method of control of any disarmament system, remains very wide and deep.

Gov. Accuses Byrd Of Waging Confused Fight

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin tonight accused H. C. Byrd, his Democratic opponent, of conducting a "confused campaign of desperation and distortion," in which he has "consistently underestimated the intelligence and the wisdom of the people of Maryland."

In a speech prepared for television delivery (WBAL-TV), McKeldin said Byrd for a score of years while president of the University of Maryland "ruled the academic mind by fear," and now attempts "through mob mesmerism and misrepresentation, to frighten the free, staunch citizenry of Maryland into a state of submission to his will."

Gov. McKeldin spent the day on a 15-stop motorcade through the Baltimore County suburbs of Baltimore, then entered the city for tonight's speech, one of the most scathing he has aimed at Byrd in the campaign.

Repeating charges of "bigotry," "prejudice" and "deceitfulness" which he has used before to describe Byrd, the governor said Byrd has failed to take a stand on the municipal home rule amendment which the voters will be called upon to adopt or reject on the Nov. 2 ballot.

"As I called for his stand on that, so I have asked him to take a position on home rule for the counties which the next Legislature will be asked to submit to the voters.

"His silence is stifling—but the record if his reign speaks with eloquence," McKeldin said.

"Of course Dr. H. C. Byrd is opposed to home rule for the civil divisions of Maryland. As governor, he would be against any relinquishing of rule by him—any extension of sovereignty to the citizens of Maryland.

"Any other position would be against everything in the nature of this power hungry campus conspirator."

McKeldin also accused Byrd of avoiding the issues of the past, the present and the future.

"He substitutes tirades of truthlessness.

"He neither approves nor disapproves of our great 12-year road construction program.

"He lacks the frankness to say the projected harbor tunnel is good, or the courage to say it is bad—so he criticizes those who are employed in advancing it toward construction.

Youth Hurt In Auto Crash Near Ridgeley

A 20-year-old Wiley Ford youth was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital early yesterday morning for X-rays and observation after being involved in an automobile accident on the outskirts of Ridgeley.

Attaches said the youth, Lloyd Oster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Oster, complained of pain in his neck and back. Chief of Police Harry Detrick, Ridgeley, who made a preliminary investigation, said Oster was a passenger in a car operated by Clyde Nelson.

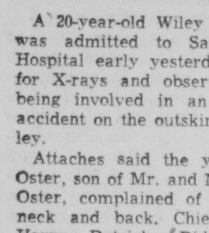

Nelson told Chief Detrick he was enroute to Ridgeley when he was blinded by an oncoming vehicle. His car, he explained, swerved off the shoulder of the road, back across the highway into an embankment and then back onto the highway and again into the embankment.

Man Sues City For $25,000 After Highway Mishap

HAGERSTOWN Oct. 22 (AP) — A $25,000 damage suit was filed against the city of Hancock today by a man who said he shouldn't have been dumped on a dangerous highway when he was in "a drunken condition and totally unable to care for himself."

The suit was filed on behalf of James Shoemaker, 55, in Circuit Court.

Shoemaker said Police Chief Howard Murfin took him beyond the Hancock city limits on Oct. 31, 1951, and left him there. He said he was struck by an automobile a short time later and was so badly injured a leg was amputated.

Murfin's actions, the suit contends, violated State laws and Hancock ordinances "providing for abatement of public nuisances and obstructions upon the public streets and highways."

New Expressway Links Baltimore And Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—District of Columbia commissioners today snipped red and white ribbons opening to traffic the 33-mile Baltimore-Washington Parkway.

When the commissioners, Samuel Spencer, Renah F. Camalier and Brig. Gen. Louis W. Prentiss, cut the ribbons they opened simultaneously dual roads linking the two cities. Minutes later both roadways—separated by a parkway — were filled with fast-moving traffic.

Looking on at ceremonies attended by more than 200 persons was Rep. Fallon (D-Md) who was chairman of the House Roads Committee which authorized construction of the expressway.

Also participating in the ceremonies at the New York Avenue bridge in Washington, was Robert M. Reindollar, now president of the American Roadbuilders Assn., who was Maryland's road commissioner when work on the freeway was started.

The 33-mile highway, which cost about a million dollars a mile, is closed to truck traffic at the Washington end and for the 16½ miles of federal construction to Jessup, Md. Trucks are permitted to use the 14¼ miles on the Baltimore end of the road.

The road is expected to draw much of the passenger car traffic from the old Washington-Baltimore Boulevard—U.S. No. 1—and cut down the annual traffic death toll on that route.

Speed limits on the parkway will range from a low of 25 miles an hour on some stretches inside the District of Columbia line, through 35 on the federal portion adjoining the District and up to 55 on Maryland's part of the new route.

There are no traffic lights and no grade crossings or side roads on the 33 miles of highway. Access to the road is provided by clover leaf intersections at junctions with major routes.

At the brief ceremonies today John Robertson, District highway director, reported the opening was far ahead of schedule because of fast work by the contractors on the Washington portion.

Spencer described the expressway as "a major step forward in the realization of the District's highway plan."

Maryland United Nations Group Opens World Exhibit

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22 (AP)—Harem girls, kangaroos and Russian costumes spiced a 'round-the-world assortment of exhibits featured here today in the first exposition of the United Nations Assn. of Maryland.

About 6,000 elementary and high school students teemed about the big Fifth Regiment Armory near downtown Baltimore for a preview showing.

The closest thing to an international incident came when a baby yak smashed through a barrier in the UN International Children's Emergency Fund exhibit. Crewmen from the Baltimore zoo subdued the young offender and hustled it from the armory until the fence could be repaired.

The Maryland U.N. group promoted the exposition to depict something of the life, customs, culture or religion of each member of the United Nations.

All 60 countries are represented in the alphabetically aligned exhibits. On ramps at each end of the armory are displays depicting the services of representative United Nations agencies.

The kangaroos are part of the Australian exhibit, which is just six steps away from the USSR section. The Russians are represented by photographs and books set up by the Friends Peace Committee. A big map with cut-out cardboard figurines shows the dress of people in the various Soviet states.

Close by, an American family and a group of Boy Scouts stand beside a tableaux of the Four Freedoms, representing the United States.

The exposition opened to the general public at 3 p. m. Formal opening ceremonies tonight featured Gov. McKeldin, former U. S. Sen. George L. Radcliffe and David H. Popper, chief of the State Department Division of UN Political and Security Affairs.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. Oct. 22 (AP) —A father is in jail here because his son was caught speeding.

Zebedee Wilson was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor for sending his 15-year-old son on an errand in an auto when the boy didn't have a license.

Police said the youth was caught driving 60 miles an hour in the city. The father was jailed yesterday in default of a $100 bond.

Mendes-France To Visit States

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—The White House announced today that French Premier Mendes-France will visit Washington and be the guest of President Eisenhower at a luncheon Nov. 18.

Press Secretary Murray Snyder said arrangements for the visit have just been concluded. Officials of the United States and France have been trying to arrange such a visit for some time.

Snyder said he understood Mendes-France would be in the United States at least two days.

When France, under Mendes-France, rejected the European Defense Community, relations between the United States and France were strained.

But the French Premier since then has played a prominent role in negotiating new agreements aimed at a unified European defense and an almost sovereign, rearmed West Germany. President Eisenhower has hailed these agreements as a great diplomatic achievement.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will precede Mendes-France with a visit here starting next Thursday. Adenauer also is to be Eisenhower's guest at a White House luncheon.

The White House said Mendes-France will visit Canada Nov. 14-17 before coming to the United States.

He denied reports that he might drop the proceeding against Roberts until he finds more evidence against him. The Baltimore man has been indicted by a grand jury on the murder charge.

Supreme Court Stays Injunction

DOVER, Del., Oct. 22 (AP) — The Delaware State Supreme Court today granted a stay of a lower court injunction restraining the Milford School Board from barring 10 Negro pupils from the all-white Milford High School.

The stay had been requested by Howard Lynch, counsel for the board, in order to appeal the injunction to the State Supreme Court.

The effect of the stay is to retain the status quo. The ten pupils are currently attending a nearby all-Negro school.

The court gave counsel for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, which had requested the injunction, until Nov. 29 to answer Lynch's briefs due Nov. 15.

The appeal itself will be heard by the high court on Dec. 13.

In its decision, the court stated there are "serious questions of law touching the existence of that legal right (of the Negroes to attend the all-white school) . . . This court, should be given sufficient time to examine these questions without disturbing the status quo as it existed upon the filing of the suit."

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 22 (AP) — A 70-year-old Lewisburg, Tenn., man, missing since last Sept. 18, was found dead today in a field near the New Stanton interchange of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Release Four Men Quizzed In Messina Murder

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22 (AP) — Four men, two of them picked up at Belmont Race Track in New York, were released today after being questioned about the mysterious slaying more than two years ago of Anthony Messina.

Police Inspector Oscar Lusby said the case had collapsed after a flurry of excitement which started two days ago.

Messina, a 54-year-old Italian of much money but no work, was found dead June 23, 1952 of four bullet wounds in the back of the head. His body had been stuffed in the trunk of a car which stood abandoned for five days near the Baltimore Fish Market.

There was talk his slaying was one of a series of gangland executions in east coast cities in 1952 linked to the mysterious operations of the Mafia, a terrorist syndicate.

The two men picked up in New York came voluntarily to Baltimore for questioning and their identities were not entered on police records.

Released with them was a Baltimore automobile mechanic familiar to police as the Mad Russian.

He had been picked up early Thursday as the result of the questioning of George Herman, 44-year-old bill collector who had been booked as "held for investigation — murder suspect." He also was released today.

Search Continues For Missing Boy

POWERS LAKE, N.D., Oct. 22 (AP)—A massive search party probed bleak prairie country inch-by-inch for the fifth day today, hoping for the near-miracle that would mean 4-year-old Lavern Enget's survival.

For the estimated 3,000 searchers, many of them sympathetic women and high school girls, there was no tangible evidence of the missing boy's whereabouts.

Days ago doctors expressed doubt that the youngster, clad only in T-shirt and blue denim trousers, could survive effects of exposure. He disappeared Sunday.

Gov. Accuses Byrd Of Waging Confused Fight

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin tonight accused H. C. Byrd, his Democratic opponent, of conducting a "confused campaign of desperation and distortion," in which he has "consistently underestimated the intelligence and the wisdom of the people of Maryland."

In a speech prepared for television delivery (WBAL-TV), McKeldin said Byrd for a score of years while president of the University of Maryland "ruled the academic mind by fear," and now attempts "through mob mesmerism and misrepresentation, to frighten the free, staunch citizenry of Maryland into a state of submission to his will."

Gov. McKeldin spent the day on a 15-stop motorcade through the Baltimore County suburbs of Baltimore, then entered the city for tonight's speech, one of the most scathing he has aimed at Byrd in the campaign.

Repeating charges of "bigotry," "prejudice" and "deceitfulness" which he has used before to describe Byrd, the governor said Byrd has failed to take a stand on the municipal home rule amendment which the voters will be called upon to adopt or reject on the Nov. 2 ballot.

"As I called for his stand on that, so I have asked him to take a position on home rule for the counties which the next Legislature will be asked to submit to the voters.

"His silence is stifling—but the record if his reign speaks with eloquence," McKeldin said.

"Of course Dr. H. C. Byrd is opposed to home rule for the civil divisions of Maryland. As governor, he would be against any relinquishing of rule by him—any extension of sovereignty to the citizens of Maryland.

"Any other position would be against everything in the nature of this power hungry campus conspirator."

McKeldin also accused Byrd of avoiding the issues of the past, the present and the future.

"He substitutes tirades of truthlessness.

"He neither approves nor disapproves of our great 12-year road construction program.

"He lacks the frankness to say the projected harbor tunnel is good, or the courage to say it is bad—so he criticizes those who are employed in advancing it toward construction.

Youth Hurt In Auto Crash Near Ridgeley

A 20-year-old Wiley Ford youth was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital early yesterday morning for X-rays and observation after being involved in an automobile accident on the outskirts of Ridgeley.

Attaches said the youth, Lloyd Oster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Oster, complained of pain in his neck and back. Chief of Police Harry Detrick, Ridgeley, who made a preliminary investigation, said Oster was a passenger in a car operated by Clyde Nelson.

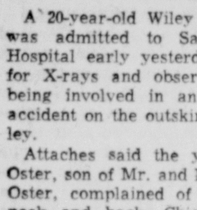

Nelson told Chief Detrick he was enroute to Ridgeley when he was blinded by an oncoming vehicle. His car, he explained, swerved off the shoulder of the road, back across the highway into an embankment and then back onto the highway and again into the embankment.

Man Sues City For $25,000 After Highway Mishap

HAGERSTOWN Oct. 22 (AP) — A $25,000 damage suit was filed against the city of Hancock today by a man who said he shouldn't have been dumped on a dangerous highway when he was in "a drunken condition and totally unable to care for himself."

The suit was filed on behalf of James Shoemaker, 55, in Circuit Court.

Shoemaker said Police Chief Howard Murfin took him beyond the Hancock city limits on Oct. 31, 1951, and left him there. He said he was struck by an automobile a short time later and was so badly injured a leg was amputated.

Murfin's actions, the suit contends, violated State laws and Hancock ordinances "providing for abatement of public nuisances and obstructions upon the public streets and highways."

New Expressway Links Baltimore And Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—District of Columbia commissioners today snipped red and white ribbons opening to traffic the 33-mile Baltimore-Washington Parkway.

When the commissioners, Samuel Spencer, Renah F. Camalier and Brig. Gen. Louis W. Prentiss, cut the ribbons they opened simultaneously dual roads linking the two cities. Minutes later both roadways—separated by a parkway — were filled with fast-moving traffic.

Looking on at ceremonies attended by more than 200 persons was Rep. Fallon (D-Md) who was chairman of the House Roads Committee which authorized construction of the expressway.

Also participating in the ceremonies at the New York Avenue bridge in Washington, was Robert M. Reindollar, now president of the American Roadbuilders Assn., who was Maryland's road commissioner when work on the freeway was started.

The 33-mile highway, which cost about a million dollars a mile, is closed to truck traffic at the Washington end and for the 16½ miles of federal construction to Jessup, Md. Trucks are permitted to use the 14¼ miles on the Baltimore end of the road.

The road is expected to draw much of the passenger car traffic from the old Washington-Baltimore Boulevard—U.S. No. 1—and cut down the annual traffic death toll on that route.

Speed limits on the parkway will range from a low of 25 miles an hour on some stretches inside the District of Columbia line, through 35 on the federal portion adjoining the District and up to 55 on Maryland's part of the new route.

There are no traffic lights and no grade crossings or side roads on the 33 miles of highway. Access to the road is provided by clover leaf intersections at junctions with major routes.

At the brief ceremonies today John Robertson, District highway director, reported the opening was far ahead of schedule because of fast work by the contractors on the Washington portion.

Spencer described the expressway as "a major step forward in the realization of the District's highway plan."

Maryland United Nations Group Opens World Exhibit

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22 (AP)—Harem girls, kangaroos and Russian costumes spiced a 'round-the-world assortment of exhibits featured here today in the first exposition of the United Nations Assn. of Maryland.

About 6,000 elementary and high school students teemed about the big Fifth Regiment Armory near downtown Baltimore for a preview showing.

The closest thing to an international incident came when a baby yak smashed through a barrier in the UN International Children's Emergency Fund exhibit. Crewmen from the Baltimore zoo subdued the young offender and hustled it from the armory until the fence could be repaired.

The Maryland U.N. group promoted the exposition to depict something of the life, customs, culture or religion of each member of the United Nations.

All 60 countries are represented in the alphabetically aligned exhibits. On ramps at each end of the armory are displays depicting the services of representative United Nations agencies.

The kangaroos are part of the Australian exhibit, which is just six steps away from the USSR section. The Russians are represented by photographs and books set up by the Friends Peace Committee. A big map with cut-out cardboard figurines shows the dress of people in the various Soviet states.

Close by, an American family and a group of Boy Scouts stand beside a tableaux of the Four Freedoms, representing the United States.

The exposition opened to the general public at 3 p. m. Formal opening ceremonies tonight featured Gov. McKeldin, former U. S. Sen. George L. Radcliffe and David H. Popper, chief of the State Department Division of UN Political and Security Affairs.

Fla. To Prosecute Roberts For Murder

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 22 (AP)—State Attorney George Brautigam said today that he intends "as of this moment" to prosecute Baltimore Attorney James. T. Roberts on a charge of murdering his seven-year-old daughter Judith Ann.

He denied reports that he might drop the proceeding against Roberts until he finds more evidence against him. The Baltimore man has been indicted by a grand jury on the murder charge.

Son Was Speeding, Father Is Jailed In Default Of Fine

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. Oct. 22 (AP) —A father is in jail here because his son was caught speeding.

Zebedee Wilson was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor for sending his 15-year-old son on an errand in an auto when the boy didn't have a license.

Police said the youth was caught driving 60 miles an hour in the city. The father was jailed yesterday in default of a $100 bond.

Mendes-France To Visit States

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—The White House announced today that French Premier Mendes-France will visit Washington and be the guest of President Eisenhower at a luncheon Nov. 18.

Press Secretary Murray Snyder said arrangements for the visit have just been concluded. Officials of the United States and France have been trying to arrange such a visit for some time.

Snyder said he understood Mendes-France would be in the United States at least two days.

When France, under Mendes-France, rejected the European Defense Community, relations between the United States and France were strained.

But the French Premier since then has played a prominent role in negotiating new agreements aimed at a unified European defense and an almost sovereign, rearmed West Germany. President Eisenhower has hailed these agreements as a great diplomatic achievement.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will precede Mendes-France with a visit here starting next Thursday. Adenauer also is to be Eisenhower's guest at a White House luncheon.

The White House said Mendes-France will visit Canada Nov. 14-17 before coming to the United States.

Supreme Court Stays Injunction

DOVER, Del., Oct. 22 (AP) — The Delaware State Supreme Court today granted a stay of a lower court injunction restraining the Milford School Board from barring 10 Negro pupils from the all-white Milford High School.

The stay had been requested by Howard Lynch, counsel for the board, in order to appeal the injunction to the State Supreme Court.

The effect of the stay is to retain the status quo. The ten pupils are currently attending a nearby all-Negro school.

The court gave counsel for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, which had requested the injunction, until Nov. 29 to answer Lynch's briefs due Nov. 15.

The appeal itself will be heard by the high court on Dec. 13.

In its decision, the court stated there are "serious questions of law touching the existence of that legal right (of the Negroes to attend the all-white school) . . . This court, should be given sufficient time to examine these questions without disturbing the status quo as it existed upon the filing of the suit."

Missing Man, 70, Is Found Dead

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 22 (AP) — A 70-year-old Lewisburg, Tenn., man, missing since last Sept. 18, was found dead today in a field near the New Stanton interchange of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

State police identified him as Samuel L. Woods. The coroner said he had been dead several weeks.

Release Four Men Quizzed In Messina Murder

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22 (AP) — Four men, two of them picked up at Belmont Race Track in New York, were released today after being questioned about the mysterious slaying more than two years ago of Anthony Messina.

Police Inspector Oscar Lusby said the case had collapsed after a flurry of excitement which started two days ago.

Messina, a 54-year-old Italian of much money but no work, was found dead June 23, 1952 of four bullet wounds in the back of the head. His body had been stuffed in the trunk of a car which stood abandoned for five days near the Baltimore Fish Market.

There was talk his slaying was one of a series of gangland executions in east coast cities in 1952 linked to the mysterious operations of the Mafia, a terrorist syndicate.

The two men picked up in New York came voluntarily to Baltimore for questioning and their identities were not entered on police records.

Released with them was a Baltimore automobile mechanic familiar to police as the Mad Russian.

He had been picked up early Thursday as the result of the questioning of George Herman, 44-year-old bill collector who had been booked as "held for investigation — murder suspect." He also was released today.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 22 (AP)—A helicopter landing team reported today a landslide Tuesday night wiped out the mountain village of Berly, 20 miles south of here. Rural police estimated 260 inhabitants were killed.

They reported there were only two survivors of the entire village population — a child who fled ahead of the rumbling earth slide and a woman who was away visiting neighbors.

Search Continues For Missing Boy

POWERS LAKE, N.D., Oct. 22 (AP)—A massive search party probed bleak prairie country inch-by-inch for the fifth day today, hoping for the near-miracle that would mean 4-year-old Lavern Enget's survival.

For the estimated 3,000 searchers, many of them sympathetic women and high school girls, there was no tangible evidence of the missing boy's whereabouts.

Days ago doctors expressed doubt that the youngster, clad only in T-shirt and blue denim trousers, could survive effects of exposure. He disappeared Sunday.

It is to be held tomorrow. Members are to meet at the Greene Street Park at 2 p. m. or at Miss Wright's cottage. Besides the usual birdwalks there also will be boating.

Other programs planned include a trip to Caudy Castle on the Cacapon River, near Paw Paw, W. Va., on November 2, beginning at 2 p. m. Special emphasis is to be paid to the historical and geological interest centered in a rock cliff 600 feet above the Capon River. Plants, such as the walking fern, and wild scenery make this a favorite field trip. There will be dinner at Lark Inn.

November 17 a business meeting will be held at the Cumberland Free Public Library at 8 p. m.

From December 25 to January 1 the Christmas count will be taken, the areas will be checked and field check-lists of former years will be given to those participating.

The Program committee is planning on public lecture to be given in February or March.

New on the year's schedule is a weekend trip to Gaudineer Knob in West Virginia, the latter part of May. Camping and hotel arrangements may be made. This is the spot visited by scientists in the East, where northern species of birds and plant life can be found.

Mrs. Albright Visits 5th Generation For First Time

As part of the celebration of her 87th birthday, Mrs. Anna Albright, Magnolia, W. Va., came to Cumberland to visit her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Shanholtz, and granddaughter, Mrs. Elonza Hare, at the latter's home, 879 Ridgedale Avenue.

Although very active, this is the first time in nine years that Mrs. Albright has visited here, as she gets car sick on the twisting road from Magnolia. When the train service was maintained between the two places, she came to Cumberland every couple of weeks. At home, Mrs. Albright keeps her own house, bakes bread twice a week and raises chickens. As her hostesses insist she is visiting here, she spends her time watching TV, but enjoys more watching the constant stream of cars on McMullen Highway, back of the house, and insists she never saw so many cars in her life. Neither TV nor the drive-in are new to Mrs. Albright.

The daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Effland, natives of West Virginia, Mrs. Albright and her husband, James Albright, a railroad man, who died in 1936, were the parents of six children, of whom four are living. They are Ira Albright, Mrs. Alice Myers, Magnolia, Miss Lottie Albright, at home, and Mrs. Shanholtz, who resides with her daughter here. Mrs. Albright has 14 grandchildren, 25 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Poland, 219 Carroll Street.

Mrs. Albright Visits 5th Generation For First Time

As part of the celebration of her 87th birthday, Mrs. Anna Albright, Magnolia, W. Va., came to Cumberland to visit her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Shanholtz, and granddaughter, Mrs. Elonza Hare, at the latter's home, 879 Ridgedale Avenue.

Although very active, this is the first time in nine years that Mrs. Albright has visited here, as she gets car sick on the twisting road from Magnolia. When the train service was maintained between the two places, she came to Cumberland every couple of weeks. At home, Mrs. Albright keeps her own house, bakes bread twice a week and raises chickens. As her hostesses insist she is visiting here, she spends her time watching TV, but enjoys more watching the constant stream of cars on McMullen Highway, back of the house, and insists she never saw so many cars in her life. Neither TV nor the drive-in are new to Mrs. Albright.

The daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Effland, natives of West Virginia, Mrs. Albright and her husband, James Albright, a railroad man, who died in 1936, were the parents of six children, of whom four are living. They are Ira Albright, Mrs. Alice Myers, Magnolia, Miss Lottie Albright, at home, and Mrs. Shanholtz, who resides with her daughter here. Mrs. Albright has 14 grandchildren, 25 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Poland, 219 Carroll Street.

TO INSURE PUBLICATION in Saturday's paper, all church notices must be in The Cumberland News office by 11 o'clock each Thursday night.

What a wonderful existence mankind would have if all the troubles and problems of this world could be dumped into a magician's hat—and then with a "presto, chango" they would all vanish.

Or, if you had such power, wouldn't it be marvelous to rid yourself of all personal worries?

But by our very nature, we are imperfect. While going it alone, we are incapable of perfect deeds and decisions.

Fortunately, there is a Greater Being than ourselves who stands ready and anxious to help us. To Him we must look for guidance and faith. And it is through His Church, here on earth, that we can best come to understand His will.

Attend Church this Sunday and every Sunday. Here, in spite of all our weaknesses, we will become stronger men and women. Here, we will learn to face the future with a surer understanding of right and wrong.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

TO INSURE PUBLICATION in Saturday's paper, all church notices must be in The Cumberland News office by 11 o'clock each Thursday night.

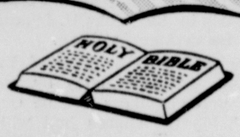

What a wonderful existence mankind would have if all the troubles and problems of this world could be dumped into a magician's hat—and then with a "presto, chango" they would all vanish.

Or, if you had such power, wouldn't it be marvelous to rid yourself of all personal worries?

But by our very nature, we are imperfect. While going it alone, we are incapable of perfect deeds and decisions.

Fortunately, there is a Greater Being than ourselves who stands ready and anxious to help us. To Him we must look for guidance and faith. And it is through His Church, here on earth, that we can best come to understand His will.

Attend Church this Sunday and every Sunday. Here, in spite of all our weaknesses, we will become stronger men and women. Here, we will learn to face the future with a surer understanding of right and wrong.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Clark Takes Issue With SRC Report On Road Program

Leslie J. Clark, Democratic candidate for the House of Delegates, yesterday issued a statement in which he took issue with the nine-month report of the State Roads Commission in connection with two projects here.

Clark prefaced his remarks on the SRC report to say that over the past weekend there was a politically-sponsored visit of the Legislative Council to Allegany County in order to pull the wool over the eyes of the people here and to attempt to convey the impression that the county is receiving the utmost consideration under the program.

Claims Full Credit

"This effort has even gone so far as to give credit to the state roads program for the construction of a road from State Route 36 to the new Mt. Savage School and the rebuilding of Frederick Street in Cumberland, all of which will be paid by funds from Allegany County, the City of Cumberland, and the federal government. This will include engineering expenses for surveys conducted by the State Roads Commission.

"The treatment that Allegany County and Western Maryland received under the Republican-sponsored 12-year road construction program is a disgrace and completely ignores the serious economic problem which exists in this county. It calls for an explanation by the incumbent Republican delegates now seeking office who supported that program in the 1953 Legislature.

"That Allegany County and Western Maryland have been ignored and relegated to a backseat position in the program is apparent by studying the program and reading the recent press releases from the State Roads Commission. It is noteworthy of the seven administrative district in which the state is divided for road purposes, Allegany County and the Western Maryland counties, during the first nine months of the program received only $4,449,918.00 in road contracts, whereas the other six districts exceeded this sum, and in the case of Montgomery and Prince Georges counties, exceeded the sum Allegany County received by approximately $13,000,000.

Ignored On Map

"The 12-year plan during its initial phases completely overlooks the effective modernization and reconstruction of Route 40 from Hancock to Cumberland. The sponsors of the 12-year program thought so much of Allegany County and Western Maryland that it was completely ignored on a map published by the Public Relations Division of the State Roads Commission in a pamphlet entitled "The Road Ahead," which explains the program. Allegany County and Garrett County were not even on the map.

"There is a public obligation of the incumbent Republican delegates seeking reelection to explain to the people of Allegany County why this county was relegated to a minor position in the program and to explain why Allegany County is to receive only $27,000,000 under the program, whereas Washington County, with a smaller population, is to receive $40,000,000. They should also explain why the contemplated construction and modernization of Route 40, such as it is, has been placed in the latter phase of the program when the economic needs of this County for new industry and a modern road system, are of paramount consideration. They should also explain why in the matter of secondary or farm roads, Allegany County was only allocated $6,137,000 under the program and Washington County was allocated $12,758,000.

Aggression Needed

"Allegany County needs more aggressive representation in Annapolis to insure that the county will receive fair treatment in programs such as that proposed by the present Republican administration and approved by our delegations. One of the ironic features of the 12-year program is that the program is Republican-sponsored and notwithstanding the fact that Allegany County usually goes down the line for the Republican candidates yet the people of this county have been treated in this shabby manner. Perhaps it is because the Republican administration is smug and feels that regardless how the people of this county are treated, they will still vote Republican.

"It is time for a change, a change which is in fact long overdue and unless the people of this county awaken to their responsibilities and elect representatives to Annapolis who will make their presence felt on matters of vital importance to this county and who will not dodge voting upon controversial issues, the future of this county will not be bright."

Ignored On Map

"The 12-year plan during its initial phases completely overlooks the effective modernization and reconstruction of Route 40 from Hancock to Cumberland. The sponsors of the 12-year program thought so much of Allegany County and Western Maryland that it was completely ignored on a map published by the Public Relations Division of the State Roads Commission in a pamphlet entitled "The Road Ahead," which explains the program. Allegany County and Garrett County were not even on the map.

"There is a public obligation of the incumbent Republican delegates seeking reelection to explain to the people of Allegany County why this county was relegated to a minor position in the program and to explain why Allegany County is to receive only $27,000,000 under the program, whereas Washington County, with a smaller population, is to receive $40,000,000. They should also explain why the contemplated construction and modernization of Route 40, such as it is, has been placed in the latter phase of the program when the economic needs of this County for new industry and a modern road system, are of paramount consideration. They should also explain why in the matter of secondary or farm roads, Allegany County was only allocated $6,137,000 under the program and Washington County was allocated $12,758,000.

Aggression Needed

"Allegany County needs more aggressive representation in Annapolis to insure that the county will receive fair treatment in programs such as that proposed by the present Republican administration and approved by our delegations. One of the ironic features of the 12-year program is that the program is Republican-sponsored and notwithstanding the fact that Allegany County usually goes down the line for the Republican candidates yet the people of this county have been treated in this shabby manner. Perhaps it is because the Republican administration is smug and feels that regardless how the people of this county are treated, they will still vote Republican.

"It is time for a change, a change which is in fact long overdue and unless the people of this county awaken to their responsibilities and elect representatives to Annapolis who will make their presence felt on matters of vital importance to this county and who will not dodge voting upon controversial issues, the future of this county will not be bright."

Labor Dispute Ruling Issued In Taxi Case

In an opinion by Associate Judge George Henderson in Circuit Court yesterday, the Maryland Employment Security Board's payment of unemployment compensation benefits to the drivers of two Cumberland taxicab firms last February when a dispute between the parties occurred was reversed.

The Employment Board decided July 29 that the drivers were to be allowed unemployment compensation. The men were employed by the Astor Cab Company and Yellow Top Cab Company.

The opinion listed the opposing contentions of the parties to the suit.

"The employers argue that the work stoppage was the result of a 'labor dispute' and therefore no unemployment benefits are payable.

Willing To Work

"The drivers contend that they were willing to continue under the old conditions, but that this employer-employe relationship ceased because the companies refused to continue to employ them; that since they were no longer employes there could be no 'labor dispute'.

"The Employment Compensation Board agreed with the contention of the drivers, and allowed unemployment benefits. The appeal to the Circuit Court followed.

"This position of the board may not be consistent with its holding in certain other cases. Recently in a case before me counsel for the board cited with approval Judge Cullen's decision to the effect that drivers of leased ice cream trucks came within the Employment Compensation Act.

"And it was admitted at the hearing that if the new leasing arrangement had been established, Jenkins and Carpenter (the taxicab owners) would have been called upon by the board to contribute to the Unemployment Compensation fund. And I believe correctly.

"On the question of whether it was a strike or lockout Judge Henderson opined.

"The drivers carried signs indicating they were 'on strike'. Technically they were not, and this was a 'lockout'. Our Court of Appeals quoted the following in deciding this question. 'A strike is the cessation of work by employes in an effort to get for the employes more desirable terms. A lockout is a cessation of the furnishing of work to employes in an effort to get for the employer more desirable terms'.

Both Are Disputes

"But this does not help the employe. The law quoted above classifies both strikes and lockouts as trade disputes. (The law is otherwise in some states).

"There was controversy over which of two methods of carrying on business should be followed by the taxicab companies. Both methods apparently would have come under the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Law. Under the definition of 'labor dispute' as defined in Article 100, Section 74-C, there was a labor dispute which brought about a 'lockout'. Consequently for the resulting unemployment no benefits are payable, due to the express prohibition of Article 95-A, Section 51-C, titled 'Labor Dispute', and the decision of the board to the contrary must be reversed."

Detroit Pulls Rabbits Out Of The Hat Again

Detroit—headquarters of the Big Three in the auto industry—is pulling rabbits out of the hat again, and those who have been permitted glimpses of its latest creations of automotive magic become rhapsodical in their descriptions of what has been achieved.

The automobile industry, which has never in the past failed to produce sensationally new designs when the sales department gave the signal, has lost none of its technique. Assembly lines are humming as they are speeded up in production of 1955 models, some of which would break down the sales resistance of the most obdurate prospect.

The automobile industry will produce more than 5,000,000 passenger cars this year, down perhaps a million from the all-time peak in sales achieved in the immediate postwar years, after the factories had been out of production for four years.

But the industry now is geared—as a result of efforts to meet demand in the 1946-51 years—to a higher level of production than ever, and now is in the position of being able to make more cars if the sales departments can move them. This resulted in revolutionary changes in appearance and mechanical design of many makes. Although the number of manufacturers is smaller than ever, there is intense competition among manufacturers, and as long as competition exists in the industry American automobiles will continue to appear year by year in models as new as tomorrow's dew.

Drastic changes in the new models resulted in longer shutdowns for changeovers in the case of some factories than had occurred in 15 years. This gave dealers an opportunity to move out remaining stocks of 1954 models, so that stocks of new cars now are considerably lower than was the case a year ago.

A Notion That Failed

The theory that a congressional election could be won by photographs of Republican candidates for Congress together with President Eisenhower has produced no practical results. Nobody cares about these particular photographs as long as they can get some of Marilyn Monroe and similar ladies. The photographs, so avidly sought and so widely advertised, are playing no part in this campaign. It is an axiom in politics that no man can transfer his personal popularity to any other man.

So the theory that a congressional campaign could be fought without issues, without debate, without attacks and counter-attacks has also dissipated itself into nothing. A tepid campaign can produce only tepid reactions. Those who conceived the idea of a light discussion about nothing by gentlemen with the amenities of a gentleman's club bar did not understand the temper of the American people.

The campaign is getting nasty. It will be very nasty in its last week because candidates are getting desperate. Irving Ive's accusations against Averell Harriman, candidates for governor of New York, are a response to the insistence for a fighting campaign. They all want to be elected but too many Americans do not want to vote. Why bother if the candidates do not bother to fight it out, as the fashion has always been in this counrty? If the nice gentlemen who wish to keep the campaign gentle and refined are distressed by the developments in New Jersey, they have not yet seen the worst in New York or Connecticut or California. If a gubernatorial contest in Arkansas becomes a series of accusations, it is nothing compared to the raising of the Dixon-Yates issue as a basic campaign argument.

The President finally made an appeal for a Republican Congress and in that he was right. But the surprising fact was that Harry Truman should have opposed that concept of what is good for America. It was Harry Truman who conducted a campaign all over the country about the 80th Congress, the Do-Nothing Congress. The 80th Congress was a Republican Congress during the Truman administration. It was under the leadership of Robert A. Taft. It was an embarrassment and a harassment for President Truman.

He knows that it is tough on a president to have a Congress of the opposite party. President Eisenhower should have known that, too. He should have known it because he is the leader of a political party. It is his business to know how American politics operate. He should have recalled the unfortunate experience of President Herbert Hoover whose career as president was wrecked by an antagonistic Congress.

Those who advised President Eisenhower not to fight for a Republican Congress, not to fight hard, misled him. If the Republicans lose either House or both of them, his next two years will be very tough: The congressional committees will be chaired by Democrats and they will use the next two years to build campaign material for 1956. Senator John McClellan will head the McCarthy Committee and his counsel will be Robert Kennedy whose ambition it is not to be overshadowed by a famous father and a distinguished brother. The Judiciary Committee, which should have gone to Pat McCarran, will now go to Senator Harley Kilgore of West Virginia, a so-called liberal and a Republican hater. He may also head the present Jenner Committee, although that should go to Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi. Senator Estes Kefauver will be back, reinforced by a large vote in Tennessee, and now a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president. He could use the next two years to advantage.

If President Eisenhower thinks he had troubles with Joe McCarthy, he has seen nothing yet. The Democrats are out to win in 1956 and their slogan is that the Republicans do not know how to run a government. If they gain control of the Congress, they will try to prove that and they will go into the past two years with a fine comb. It could be very unpleasant.

To blame: The fine gentlemen in President Eisenhower's entourage who believe that politics in the United States are nasty and unfit for gentlemen. If the voters agree with them, they will have ample opportunity to stay away from what is nasty and dirty.

But this is also true: It is best for the country when a president and Congress are of one party.

Democrat Unemployment Propaganda The Bunk

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—There's a lot of bunkum being handed the American people today by speakers on the Democratic side, starting with former President Truman—particularly the idea that the Republicans haven't handled the unemployment problem the way they should.

The record, however, of unemployment figures since the turn of the century shows that the Democratic Administrations have never been able to produce high employment except by going to war.

It was World War II which saved the Roosevelt Administration from the worst record of unemployment the nation has ever experienced, and it was the Korean War which saved the Truman Administration as well.

Back in 1949, when the nation suffered a recession quite comparable to the one experienced earlier this year, there were 3,800,000 persons out of work as compared with 3,100,000 this year. But Mr. Truman, who was President then, wasn't calling it a calamity nor advocating the unsound measures which he and his associates in the Democratic Party have been urging lately. Here is what Mr. Truman had to say in his midyear economic report of July 1949:

"The number of unemployed in June was 3.8 million, and acute unployment problems have developed in certain localities . . . the decline in industrial production was rapid, and by June had reached 13 per cent below last fall's peak . . . farm income was about 8 per cent below the first half of 1948."

Did Mr. Truman, in spite of that evidence, call for emergency measures? Did he deal "boldly" with unemployment? He says now the Eisenhower Administration has been "standing idly by, waiting for a miracle while millions are jobless." But here is the way Mr. Truman expressed himself in that same 1949 report when 3,800,000 were jobless:

"These facts show that our economy is still operating at high levels of employment and production. The kind of government action that would be called for in a serious economic emergency would not be appropriate now.

"The economic situation does not now call for an immediate and sweeping expansion of public works . . .

"No changes in the tax laws which would result in a larger net loss in revenues would be justified at this time.

". . . It is desirable to recognize clearly that the objective of farm support prices is to maintain an adequate level of farm income and promote shifts in lines of agricultural production which will encourage an increase in the total domestic consumption of farm products."

This sounds exactly as if the Eisenhower Administration had written it, with the exception that there has been a tax reduction and it has not resulted in any serious loss of revenue over-all. But the above sentences did not bring forth from Democrats at the time any charge that the man in the White House had "no heart for the little fellow" and was only concerned about "big business."

The truth of the matter is that the Democratic Administration didn't get out of the unemployment hole it was in during 1949 until Mr. Truman intervened in Korea in 1950. Then came the war boom in business. Unemployment went down from 5.4 per cent, which was what it was in 1949—about the same as today—to 4.9 in 1950 and then 2.9 in 1951. It went even lower—down to 2.6—in 1952.

After the Korean War ended under the Eisenhower Administration, unemployment went back to 5 per cent, which is what it is during the present period of readjustment.

The figures show that the Democratic Administration was not able to pull out of the doldrums in the '30's except by a war boom. Thus, in 1933, when the United States felt the disastrous effects of a world-wide depression, the percentage of persons unemployed went to the highest on record—namely, 24.9 per cent. Six years later, after all the hullabaloo about the New Deal and its leaf-raking WPA and other unsound measures, the percentage of unemployed was still 17.2, or about 9,480,000 persons without jobs.

It was not until 1942, after America entered World War II, that the percentage of unemployed came down to 4.7 per cent from the previous year's 9.9 per cent, or 5,560,000 persons idle.

Can America get a balanced economy with a minimum of unemployment without entering a war and suffering casualties of American youth? On the record, it shows that the Democrats have not been able to do it, but the Republicans have. That's why the voter has to think twice about the propaganda being handed him. For the Eisenhower Administration, with less unemployed today than Mr. Truman had in 1949, has achieved something most unusual for peacetime. The prospect, moreover, as the fourth quarter of business indicate, is for less and less unemployment—and no more wars either.

The Reader Writes: About Housewife's Heart Attack

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A woman from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, writes: "Your article on coronary thrombosis are good but they always concern the industrial worker. What about the housewife who has had a heart attack?" Recommendations for the homemaker with coronary disease are no different from those given the industrial worker. Her work may be resumed when the physician gives the green light.

Household chores that lead to pain, shortness of breath, or a fast pulse ought to be avoided. It is here that milady is lucky because she can regulate her own schedule and can lie down when tired without interference from the boss.

"After 10 years of military service, during which I was subject to many adverse climatic and health conditions, I noticed that never once was I bedridden by colds or fever. Now after a year of civilian life, I have had one cold after another. Do you think it was the inoculations received or the infantryman's vow of plenty of food and sleep that made us immune?" These factors play a role, but this man's experience serves to stress the fact that most colds are caught from people and have nothing to do with climate.

I have known individuals who never catch colds so long as they get enough rest. Other are bothered whenever they mingle with crowds or ride a public conveyance. The civilian is more likely to be confronted with these situations. On the other hand, the health of the soldier is often dependent upon that of his buddies because colds and other infectious diseases spread like wildfire through the barracks.

Mrs. T. writes: You often mention that people should plan for old age. How do you go about it?

REPLY

There are many phases to this problem, including economic, psychologic, sociologic, and medical. Numerouse books have been written on the subject, many of which may be obtained at a public library. Others may be purchased at book stores. All kinds. Most pneumonias result from infections due to bacteria, virus, fungi, or other organisms. Less frequent types follow surgery or the inhalation of oily substances or chemicals.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

History records that in 1916, a young lieutenant just graduated from West Point, was summoned from his post at Fort Sam Houston to coach the football team of a nearby school. The coach, one Dwight D. Eisenhower, found the spirit there willing, but the material sparse. Desperately seeking reinforcements for the skimpy squad, he suddenly spotted a husky specimen crossing the campus. "Look here, young fellow," he called sharply. "Why aren't you out to play football?" The husky replied, "Lieutenant, I'll have you know I'm the principal of this school."

A hobo discovered through the years that doctors were comparatively soft touches, so his spirits rose when he saw a medico's shingle outside a door. A beautiful young lady answered his peel on the bell. The hobo wheezed, "Do

President Tubman Of Liberia Caught Up In Hassle Of American Politics

By Drew Fearson

WASHINGTON — A significant backstage hassle has developed over the right to entertain—and be photographed with—William V. S. Tubman, Negro president of the Negro Republic of Liberia.

Climax of the hassle is an invitation to President Tubman from Governor Dewey calculated to keep him away from Hyde Park and the laying of a wreath on Roosevelt's tomb. As of this writing, pleased but harried President Tubman doesn't quite know what to do.

A Republican president brought him to the U.S.A., so he feels he has to bow to the wishes of his hosts. On the other hand, the late President Roosevelt is a great hero in Liberia—in fact, the only president of the United States to visit Liberia. So President Tubman's advisers are suggesting that he had best go to Roosevelt's tomb at Hyde Park even if it does lose some Negro votes to the Republican party on November 2.

Meanwhile, the rush to welcome and be photographed with the coal-black president of Liberia has been such that the entourage of Mohammed Ali, prime minister of Pakistan, are not all happy.

Mohammed Ali, arriving in Washington a few days ahead of President Tubman, was not greeted by Eisenhower and got nowhere near the same enthusiastic attention.

This does not go down particularly well with our strongest ally in the Middle East. The U.S.A. is spending up to about $100,000,000 in arms, food and other aid to Pakistan in order to insure the Russian-Indian-Pakistan border against Communist penetration. A Strong Pakistan, we hope, will offset the neutral Nehru and the uncertain policies of Burma, Ceylon and Indonesia.

Few Mohammedan Votes

That's why the prime minister of Pakistan can't quite understand the attention showered on a relatively obscure president from a relatively obscure country in Africa. What he doesn't realize, of course, is that the big White House glad-hand extended to President Tubman right now means votes. There are not many Mohammedans voting in this country, and there are a lot of colored folks.

Mohammed Ali, of course, is too polite to say anything about this, but his aides have complained privately. They note that whereas Ike did not come back from Denver in time to see their prime minister, both Vice President Nixon and Secretary Dulles rushed to the Washington airport to greet Tubman while Eisenhower stood by in the White House as the dusky dignitary from Liberia got the full 21-gun salute.

Moreover, the date of Tubman's arrival in the U. S. was changed three times so that Ike could be present to welcome him—from the original October 20, to October 13, to the final, October 18—changes caused by Ike's last-minute plans for political speeches in Denver and Indianapolis.

NOTE 1—What the Pakistanis don't realize is that things have changed in the U.S.A. The last time a Republican president—Calvin Coolidge—received a Negro president, Louis Borno of Haiti, the U. S. Marine Corps Band in Port-Au-Prince played "Bye-By Black Bird" as he departed; while Lt. William O'Connor, son of a New York policeman and with a certain aversion to gentlemen of color, deliberately failed to fire the required 21-gun salute from Governors Island as President Borno steamed proudly up the bay.

NOTE 2 — Things have also changed regarding Liberia. The last Republican secretary of state, Henry L. Stimson, sent the most scorching note of his entire career to President King of Liberia, castigating him for selling his fellow blacks into slave labor to the Firestone Rubber Company; this in a republic founded by ex-slaves to pioneer Negro freedom!

Liberian Merry-Go-Round

Official reason for President Tubman's visit to the U. S. is to get a $4,000,000 aid program extended. (I predict he would have gotten it without coming.) . . . He's also up for re-election to a third term, after being in office 11 years. . . . Tubman, a realist, is under no delusion regarding his sudden popularity with Eisenhower officials. He understands politics as well as Postmaster General Summerfield . . . Also he has some expert advisers, including Carl Murphy, publisher of the Afro-American, and Mrs. Robert Vann, publisher of the Pittsburgh Courier, two of the biggest Negro papers in the world. They oppose Tubman's acceptance of too many of the political invitations now deluging him from almost every major GOP politician east of the Mississippi . . . At present, Tubman's schedule, still incomplete, calls for a two-week swing through Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and New York, all having heavy Negro populations which usually vote Democratic . . . American Negro advisers fear a political tour may harm the dignity of the Negro nation which American Negroes founded. But President Tubman is being pulled in the opposite direction by Republic Steel and Firestone Rubber, with large interests in both Liberia and the Eisenhower administration . . . E. S. Bowerfind of Republic Steel and Douglas Whitlock representing Firestone are whispering persuasive words to the effect that President Tubman must make a tour of all big Negro areas in the U. S.

Putting On The Dog

By Brother Barnabas

When Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson made that unfortunate slip the other day comparing unemployed workers to dogs, he raised quite a furore in political circles.

Although he quickly apologized, the aftermath may affect the vote on November 2.

Be that as it may, the incident has brought the Canis familiaris family into prominence by making an invidious comparison between the bird dog and the kennel-fed dog, to the disparagement of the latter.

His doggone partiality may yet stir up a rivalry amongst the various breeds that will call for a special session of Congress to decide upon the relative merits of the candidates, in accordance with that constitutional tenet in dogdom that entitles every dog to have his day.

While the debate is going on, this deponent rises to protest:

I doan keer if he is a houn'
You gotta quit kickin' my dawg aroun'.

One reason why men say "Love me, love my dog" is that dogs flatter their intelligence. Some dogs know more than their masters. Dogs learn by experience, some men don't.

When you say "Scram" to your dog, he vamooses. Some children are not so obedient.

Your dog applauds what you say—whether he understands you or not—smiling and wagging his tail. He is proud of being dumb, for only so can he maintain his inferiority complex toward his master, whom he worships as a god.

Your dog is a paragon of self-effacement. Men are sometimes priggish and pretentious. They "put on the dog." Dogs never do.

George Ade's parson was losing popularity with his congregation. They could understand every word he said, but they wanted something h'falutin.

He decided to try to win them back by handing out a little gaff. The next Sunday he "flew his kite." He read a text that didn't mean anything.

Then he seized up the flock with dreamy eyes and said: "We can no more adequately voice the poetry and mysticism of our text than in those familiar lines from the great Icelandish poet, Ikon Navrokz—

To hold is not to have—
Under the seared firmament
Where Chaos sweeps, and vast Futurity
Sneers at these puny aspirations—
There is the full reprisal.

The people gasped and wept at the learned pomposity of their preacher, and worried about how they could raise his salary high enough to keep him.

Every boy should have a dog. Mine came one day with the air of one who had forgotten something and returned for it. He was full of nettles and cockleburs and needed a bath badly.

We kids took him in and treated him like a member of the family. We fed him at the table with an offering, not a collection. He would romp and play, retrieve a ball, beg for his dinner, shake hands, sit on his fanny and act like a gentleman.

He was not a bird dog, or one kennel-fed. He was more of a rabbit dog. He liked to chase rabbits but was never known to catch one.

He was a filosopher. He never let one day's troubles carry over to the next. He started out each new day from scratch.

"Watch" died of a broken heart, the result of malicious gossip, and was buried wilth ceremony in the woods nearby.

I speak for dogs. Dogs are licensed. Their licenses should be certificated too, as knowing how to take care of their wards.

In one bizarre instance the owner bobtailed his dog bit by bit. "Floppy" bore the attenuated surgery heroically and forgivingly, each time digging up the buried segment and laying it as a votive offering at his master's feet. He never failed once, he was faithful "to the end."

A certain farmer had trouble with a sheep killer. One day he encountered the thief and went after him with a pitchfork.

Said the owner: "Why didn't you use the handle end of the pitchfork?" Replied the farmer, "Why didn't he come at me from the other end?"

Gladstone once complained: "I'm living a dog's life."

His friend replied: "Yes, not the life of a bird dog or of a kennel-fed dog, but a St. Bernard dog's life."

Then the great English statesman remembered the heroism of that rescuer of travelers lost in the snowdrifts of the Alpine passes, whose breed for a thousand years had been carrying on that vicarious ministry.

Inspired by that memory, and the supreme example of Francis Thompson's "Hound of Heaven," the great Prime Minister tightened his belt and went back to his task with fresh courage and untiring devotion.

Dogmatically yours,

Detroit Pulls Rabbits Out Of The Hat Again

Detroit—headquarters of the Big Three in the auto industry—is pulling rabbits out of the hat again, and those who have been permitted glimpses of its latest creations of automotive magic become rhapsodical in their descriptions of what has been achieved.

The automobile industry, which has never in the past failed to produce sensationally new designs when the sales department gave the signal, has lost none of its technique. Assembly lines are humming as they are speeded up in production of 1955 models, some of which would break down the sales resistance of the most obdurate prospect.

The automobile industry will produce more than 5,000,000 passenger cars this year, down perhaps a million from the all-time peak in sales achieved in the immediate postwar years, after the factories had been out of production for four years.

But the industry now is geared—as a result of efforts to meet demand in the 1946-51 years—to a higher level of production than ever, and now is in the position of being able to make more cars if the sales departments can move them. This resulted in revolutionary changes in appearance and mechanical design of many makes. Although the number of manufacturers is smaller than ever, there is intense competition among manufacturers, and as long as competition exists in the industry American automobiles will continue to appear year by year in models as new as tomorrow's dew.

Drastic changes in the new models resulted in longer shutdowns for changeovers in the case of some factories than had occurred in 15 years. This gave dealers an opportunity to move out remaining stocks of 1954 models, so that stocks of new cars now are considerably lower than was the case a year ago.

Democrat Unemployment Propaganda The Bunk

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—There's a lot of bunkum being handed the American people today by speakers on the Democratic side, starting with former President Truman—particularly the idea that the Republicans haven't handled the unemployment problem the way they should.

The record, however, of unemployment figures since the turn of the century shows that the Democratic Administrations have never been able to produce high employment except by going to war.

It was World War II which saved the Roosevelt Administration from the worst record of unemployment the nation has ever experienced, and it was the Korean War which saved the Truman Administration as well.

Back in 1949, when the nation suffered a recession quite comparable to the one experienced earlier this year, there were 3,800,000 persons out of work as compared with 3,100,000 this year. But Mr. Truman, who was President then, wasn't calling it a calamity nor advocating the unsound measures which he and his associates in the Democratic Party have been urging lately. Here is what Mr. Truman had to say in his midyear economic report of July 1949:

"The number of unemployed in June was 3.8 million, and acute unployment problems have developed in certain localities . . . the decline in industrial production was rapid, and by June had reached 13 per cent below last fall's peak . . . farm income was about 8 per cent below the first half of 1948."

He says now the Eisenhower Administration has been "standing idly by, waiting for a miracle while millions are jobless." But here is the way Mr. Truman expressed himself in that same 1949 report when 3,800,000 were jobless:

"These facts show that our economy is still operating at high levels of employment and production. The kind of government action that would be called for in a serious economic emergency would not be appropriate now.

"No changes in the tax laws which would result in a larger net loss in revenues would be justified at this time.

". . . It is desirable to recognize clearly that the objective of farm support prices is to maintain an adequate level of farm income and promote shifts in lines of agricultural production which will encourage an increase in the total domestic consumption of farm products."

This sounds exactly as if the Eisenhower Administration had written it, with the exception that there has been a tax reduction and it has not resulted in any serious loss of revenue over-all. But the above sentences did not bring forth from Democrats at the time any charge that the man in the White House had "no heart for the little fellow" and was only concerned about "big business."

The truth of the matter is that the Democratic Administration didn't get out of the unemployment hole it was in during 1949 until Mr. Truman intervened in Korea in 1950. Then came the war boom in business. Unemployment went down from 5.4 per cent, which was what it was in 1949—about the same as today—to 4.9 in 1950 and then 2.9 in 1951. It went even lower—down to 2.6—in 1952.

After the Korean War ended under the Eisenhower Administration, unemployment went back to 5 per cent, which is what it is during the present period of readjustment.

The figures show that the Democratic Administration was not able to pull out of the doldrums in the '30's except by a war boom. Thus, in 1933, when the United States felt the disastrous effects of a world-wide depression, the percentage of persons unemployed went to the highest on record—namely, 24.9 per cent. Six years later, after all the hullabaloo about the New Deal and its leaf-raking WPA and other unsound measures, the percentage of unemployed was still 17.2, or about 9,480,000 persons without jobs.

It was not until 1942, after America entered World War II, that the percentage of unemployed came down to 4.7 per cent from the previous year's 9.9 per cent, or 5,560,000 persons idle.

Can America get a balanced economy with a minimum of unemployment without entering a war and suffering casualties of American youth? On the record, it shows that the Democrats have not been able to do it, but the Republicans have. That's why the voter has to think twice about the propaganda being handed him. For the Eisenhower Administration, with less unemployed today than Mr. Truman had in 1949, has achieved something most unusual for peacetime. The prospect, moreover, as the fourth quarter of business indicate, is for less and less unemployment—and no more wars either.

The Reader Writes: About Housewife's Heart Attack

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A woman from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, writes: "Your article on coronary thrombosis are good but they always concern the industrial worker. What about the housewife who has had a heart attack?" Recommendations for the homemaker with coronary disease are no different from those given the industrial worker. Her work may be resumed when the physician gives the green light.

Household chores that lead to pain, shortness of breath, or a fast pulse ought to be avoided. It is here that milady is lucky because she can regulate her own schedule and can lie down when tired without interference from the boss.

"After 10 years of military service, during which I was subject to many adverse climatic and health conditions, I noticed that never once was I bedridden by colds or fever. Now after a year of civilian life, I have had one cold after another. Do you think it was the inoculations received or the infantryman's vow of plenty of food and sleep that made us immune?" These factors play a role, but this man's experience serves to stress the fact that most colds are caught from people and have nothing to do with climate.

I have known individuals who never catch colds so long as they get enough rest. Other are bothered whenever they mingle with crowds or ride a public conveyance. The civilian is more likely to be confronted with these situations. On the other hand, the health of the soldier is often dependent upon that of his buddies because colds and other infectious diseases spread like wildfire through the barracks.

LOOKING AHEAD—

Mrs. T. writes: You often mention that people should plan for old age. How do you go about it?

REPLY

There are many phases to this problem, including economic, psychologic, sociologic, and medical. In a nutshell, preparation means maintaining good health, a cheerful outlook, and at least a subsistence level of income. Numerouse books have been written on the subject, many of which may be obtained at a public library. Others may be purchased at book stores. We have a list of books on middle and old age that may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

BAREFOOT

Mrs. M. B. writes: My 2-year-old child has weak arches. Is it advisable to allow her to walk barefoot?

REPLY

Yes, as this will strengthen the arches. At age 2, however, the feet are not fully developed so don't be too alarmed about your tot's arches.

PNEUMONIA TYPES

P. W. write: How many kinds of pneumonia are there?

REPLY

All kinds. Most pneumonias result from infections due to bacteria, virus, fungi, or other organisms. Less frequent types follow surgery or the inhalation of oily substances or chemicals.

* To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

History records that in 1916, a young lieutenant just graduated from West Point, was summoned from his post at Fort Sam Houston to coach the football team of a nearby school. The coach, one Dwight D. Eisenhower, found the spirit there willing, but the material sparse. Desperately seeking reinforcements for the skimpy squad, he suddenly spotted a husky specimen crossing the campus. "Look here, young fellow," he called sharply. "Why aren't you out to play football?" The husky replied, "Lieutenant, I'll have you know I'm the principal of this school."

A hobo discovered through the years that doctors were comparatively soft touches, so his spirits rose when he saw a medico's shingle outside a door. A beautiful young lady answered his peel on the bell. The hobo wheezed, "Do you think the good doctor could find an old pair of pants for a fellow down on his luck?" The girl chuckled, and replied, "Quite possibly, but I doubt that they'd do you much good. You see, I happen to be the doctor."

President Tubman Of Liberia Caught Up In Hassle Of American Politics

By Drew Fearson

WASHINGTON — A significant backstage hassle has developed over the right to entertain—and be photographed with—William V. S. Tubman, Negro president of the Negro Republic of Liberia.

Climax of the hassle is an invitation to President Tubman from Governor Dewey calculated to keep him away from Hyde Park and the laying of a wreath on Roosevelt's tomb. As of this writing, pleased but harried President Tubman doesn't quite know what to do.

A Republican president brought him to the U.S.A., so he feels he has to bow to the wishes of his hosts. On the other hand, the late President Roosevelt is a great hero in Liberia—in fact, the only president of the United States to visit Liberia. So President Tubman's advisers are suggesting that he had best go to Roosevelt's tomb at Hyde Park even if it does lose some Negro votes to the Republican party on November 2.

Meanwhile, the rush to welcome and be photographed with the coal-black president of Liberia has been such that the entourage of Mohammed Ali, prime minister of Pakistan, are not all happy.

Mohammed Ali, arriving in Washington a few days ahead of President Tubman, was not greeted by Eisenhower and got nowhere near the same enthusiastic attention.

This does not go down particularly well with our strongest ally in the Middle East. The U.S.A. is spending up to about $100,000,000 in arms, food and other aid to Pakistan in order to insure the Russian-Indian-Pakistan border against Communist penetration. A Strong Pakistan, we hope, will offset the neutral Nehru and the uncertain policies of Burma, Ceylon and Indonesia.

Few Mohammedan Votes

That's why the prime minister of Pakistan can't quite understand the attention showered on a relatively obscure president from a relatively obscure country in Africa. What he doesn't realize, of course, is that the big White House glad-hand extended to President Tubman right now means votes. There are not many Mohammedans voting in this country, and there are a lot of colored folks.

Mohammed Ali, of course, is too polite to say anything about this, but his aides have complained privately. They note that whereas Ike did not come back from Denver in time to see their prime minister, both Vice President Nixon and Secretary Dulles rushed to the Washington airport to greet Tubman while Eisenhower stood by in the White House as the dusky dignitary from Liberia got the full 21-gun salute.

Moreover, the date of Tubman's arrival in the U. S. was changed three times so that Ike could be present to welcome him—from the original October 20, to October 13, to the final, October 18—changes caused by Ike's last-minute plans for political speeches in Denver and Indianapolis.

NOTE 1—What the Pakistanis don't realize is that things have changed in the U.S.A. The last time a Republican president—Calvin Coolidge—received a Negro president, Louis Borno of Haiti, the U. S. Marine Corps Band in Port-Au-Prince played "Bye-By Black Bird" as he departed; while Lt. William O'Connor, son of a New York policeman and with a certain aversion to gentlemen of color, deliberately failed to fire the required 21-gun salute from Governors Island as President Borno steamed proudly up the bay.

NOTE 2 — Things have also changed regarding Liberia. The last Republican secretary of state, Henry L. Stimson, sent the most scorching note of his entire career to President King of Liberia, castigating him for selling his fellow blacks into slave labor to the Firestone Rubber Company; this in a republic founded by ex-slaves to pioneer Negro freedom!

Liberian Merry-Go-Round

Official reason for President Tubman's visit to the U. S. is to get a $4,000,000 aid program extended. (I predict he would have gotten it without coming.) . . . He's also up for re-election to a third term, after being in office 11 years. . . . Tubman, a realist, is under no delusion regarding his sudden popularity with Eisenhower officials. He understands politics as well as Postmaster General Summerfield . . . Also he has some expert advisers, including Carl Murphy, publisher of the Afro-American, and Mrs. Robert Vann, publisher of the Pittsburgh Courier, two of the biggest Negro papers in the world. They oppose Tubman's acceptance of too many of the political invitations now deluging him from almost every major GOP politician east of the Mississippi . . . At present, Tubman's schedule, still incomplete, calls for a two-week swing through Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and New York, all having heavy Negro populations which usually vote Democratic . . . American Negro advisers fear a political tour may harm the dignity of the Negro nation which American Negroes founded. But President Tubman is being pulled in the opposite direction by Republic Steel and Firestone Rubber, with large interests in both Liberia and the Eisenhower administration . . . E. S. Bowerfind of Republic Steel and Douglas Whitlock representing Firestone are whispering persuasive words to the effect that President Tubman must make a tour of all big Negro areas in the U. S.

Putting On The Dog

By Brother Barnabas

When Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson made that unfortunate slip the other day comparing unemployed workers to dogs, he raised quite a furore in political circles.

Although he quickly apologized, the aftermath may affect the vote on November 2.

Be that as it may, the incident has brought the Canis familiaris family into prominence by making an invidious comparison between the bird dog and the kennel-fed dog, to the disparagement of the latter.

His doggone partiality may yet stir up a rivalry amongst the various breeds that will call for a special session of Congress to decide upon the relative merits of the candidates, in accordance with that constitutional tenet in dogdom that entitles every dog to have his day.

While the debate is going on, this deponent rises to protest:

I doan keer if he is a houn'
You gotta quit kickin' my dawg aroun'.

One reason why men say "Love me, love my dog" is that dogs flatter their intelligence. Some dogs know more than their masters. Dogs learn by experience, some men don't.

When you say "Scram" to your dog, he vamooses. Some children are not so obedient.

Your dog applauds what you say—whether he understands you or not—smiling and wagging his tail. He is proud of being dumb, for only so can he maintain his inferiority complex toward his master, whom he worships as a god.

Your dog is a paragon of self-effacement. Men are sometimes priggish and pretentious. They "put on the dog." Dogs never do.

George Ade's parson was losing popularity with his congregation. They could understand every word he said, but they wanted something h'falutin.

He decided to try to win them back by handing out a little gaff. The next Sunday he "flew his kite." He read a text that didn't mean anything.

Then he seized up the flock with dreamy eyes and said: "We can no more adequately voice the poetry and mysticism of our text than in those familiar lines from the great Icelandish poet, Ikon Navrokz—

To hold is not to have—
Under the seared firmament
Where Chaos sweeps, and vast Futurity
Sneers at these puny aspirations—
There is the full reprisal.

The people gasped and wept at the learned pomposity of their preacher, and worried about how they could raise his salary high enough to keep him.

Every boy should have a dog. Mine came one day with the air of one who had forgotten something and returned for it. He was full of nettles and cockleburs and needed a bath badly.

We kids took him in and treated him like a member of the family. We fed him at the table with an offering, not a collection. He would romp and play, retrieve a ball, beg for his dinner, shake hands, sit on his fanny and act like a gentleman.

He was not a bird dog, or one kennel-fed. He was more of a rabbit dog. He liked to chase rabbits but was never known to catch one.

He was a filosopher. He never let one day's troubles carry over to the next. He started out each new day from scratch.

"Watch" died of a broken heart, the result of malicious gossip, and was buried with ceremony in the woods nearby.

I speak for dogs. Dogs are licensed. Their licenses should be certificated too, as knowing how to take care of their wards.

In one bizarre instance the owner bobtailed his dog bit by bit. "Floppy" bore the attenuated surgery heroically and forgivingly, each time digging up the buried segment and laying it as a votive offering at his master's feet. He never failed once, he was faithful "to the end."

A certain farmer had trouble with a sheep killer. One day he encountered the thief and went after him with a pitchfork.

Said the owner: "Why didn't you use the handle end of the pitchfork?" Replied the farmer, "Why didn't he come at me from the other end?"

His friend replied: "Yes, not the life of a bird dog or of a kennel-fed dog, but a St. Bernard dog's life."

Then the great English statesman remembered the heroism of that rescuer of travelers lost in the snowdrifts of the Alpine passes, whose breed for a thousand years had been carrying on that vicarious ministry.

Inspired by that memory, and the supreme example of Francis Thompson's "Hound of Heaven," the great Prime Minister tightened his belt and went back to his task with fresh courage and untiring devotion.

Dogmatically yours,
BROTHER BARNABAS

Parsons Girl's Trial Opens In Baltimore City

Court To Probe Defendant's Age

After enduring long harangues, refusals to testify on the grounds of self-incrimination and other legal maneuvering, Judge James K. Cullen in Baltimore has decided to initiate his own probe to determine whether a young girl was illegally tried on charges of conspiring to rob a bank.

The proceedings before Judge Cullen in Baltimore City Court involved the efforts of Mrs. Beverly Ann Nestor Rubenstein, Parsons, W. Va., to escape conviction and an eight-year sentence on the grounds that she was only 15 when tried last May in Youth Court.

The young girl escaped from the State Reformatory for Women in August, married a 19-year-old Fort Bragg soldier in September and was captured by the FBI ten days after the wedding in Dillon County, S. C.

Although she has given her age on different occasions as 19 and 16, she now contends she was born December 22, 1938.

Her soldier-husband, James E. Rubenstein, of Brooklyn, N. Y., filed habeas corpus action to upset the conspiracy and accessory conviction involving a Canton bank, and another conviction on disorderly house charges, on the grounds that the juvenile division had not waived jurisdiction in the cases.

If the move is successful, the young girl would avoid trial on an escape charge in Anne Arundel County because she could not be tried for escaping from an illegal imprisonment.

The efforts of Benjamin L. Wolfson, counsel for the husband, to legally prove the girl's true age in court met with stiff opposition from Edwin A. Gehring and James Murphy, prosecutors.

Gehring described the whole affair as a "travesty on justice" and said the state would use every technical means to prevent the courts "from being burdened with distended proceedings because this traverser chose to lie."

Parsons Girl's Trial Opens In Baltimore City

Court To Probe Defendant's Age

After enduring long harangues, refusals to testify on the grounds of self-incrimination and other legal maneuvering, Judge James K. Cullen in Baltimore has decided to initiate his own probe to determine whether a young girl was illegally tried on charges of conspiring to rob a bank.

The proceedings before Judge Cullen in Baltimore City Court involved the efforts of Mrs. Beverly Ann Nestor Rubenstein, Parsons, W. Va., to escape conviction and an eight-year sentence on the grounds that she was only 15 when tried last May in Youth Court.

The young girl escaped from the State Reformatory for Women in August, married a 19-year-old Fort Bragg soldier in September and was captured by the FBI ten days after the wedding in Dillon County, S. C.

Although she has given her age on different occasions as 19 and 16, she now contends she was born December 22, 1938.

Her soldier-husband, James E. Rubenstein, of Brooklyn, N. Y., filed habeas corpus action to upset the conspiracy and accessory conviction involving a Canton bank, and another conviction on disorderly house charges, on the grounds that the juvenile division had not waived jurisdiction in the cases.

If the move is successful, the young girl would avoid trial on an escape charge in Anne Arundel County because she could not be tried for escaping from an illegal imprisonment.

The efforts of Benjamin L. Wolfson, counsel for the husband, to legally prove the girl's true age in court met with stiff opposition from Edwin A. Gehring and James Murphy, prosecutors.

Gehring described the whole affair as a "travesty on justice" and said the state would use every technical means to prevent the courts "from being burdened with distended proceedings because this traverser chose to lie."

By TED TROXELL

An undefeated Martinsburg High eleven handed Coach Roy Lester's Allegany Campers their second straight loss of the 1954 season, with halfback Teddy Kershner leading the Bulldogs to their sixth win of the campaign, 20-0, last night at Fort Hill Stadium.

Kershner must hold a grudge against city schools, as the senior speed merchant scored both touchdowns in Martinsburg's 12-6 win over Fort Hill and last night personally accounted for one score and proved a constant thorn in the Campers' sides, with his superb running.

A fumble recovery set up the West Virginians' first score. The Bulldogs kicked off to Allegany, fullback "Ducky" Perdew returning the ball to his own 25-yard line. The Campers picked up a first down but then ran into trouble.

An offside penalty set them back to the 31 and "Bucky" Rice just managed to get back to the line of scrimmage on the next play. Haines then pitched out to Rice again and the Camper halfback started around right end. Just as he was hit by a Martinsburg defender, the ball squirted from his hands and Ken Harmon, alert Bulldog guard, pounced on it.

Dickie Lewis Scores

It took Coach John Cobourne's crew just seven plays to reach paydirt, with quarterback Dickie Lewis sneaking over from the three for the score. Lewis tacked on the extra point and Martinsburg led, 7-0. The two clubs battled on fairly even terms for the remainder of the half.

Right after the locals kicked off to start the second half, Kershner, on the first play from scrimmage, galloped 57 yards down the right sidelines before finally being hit by Alco's Ray Wharton on the Camper 21. At this point the Allegany forward wall rose to the occasion and prevented the Orange and Black from scoring.

However, the Campers, after taking over on downs, couldn't get their offensive attack started and were forced to punt. Kershner returned the ball to the Allegany 47. Two carries by Bernie Petrucci placed the oval on the 34 and Kershner took off on another long run, but this time didn't stop until reaching the end zone.

Taking a handoff from Lewis, he went around right end, where he was met by several would-be tacklers, but somehow managed to elude them. Lewis tacked on the point after.

Tally On Aerial

The Cobournites marched 85 yards for their final TD in the last period. After downing a Mike Lease punt on their own 15, they moved in seven plays to the Allegany goal. Included in the drive were two pass plays, one from Lewis to Kershner for 37 yards and the other from Lewis to end Ronnie Smallwood, which accounted for the score. The latter play covered 25 yards. It was the fifth touchdown pass Smallwood has snared this year.

The try for the point was partially blocked and went wide to the right. Danny Vance, sturdy Allegany tackle, and Bulldog fullback Dale Wroe were ejected from the game after a fight broke out when Lewis tried for the point.

The closest Allegany came to the goal line was in the second quarter when they drove to the Martinsburg 13, near the end of the quarter. Ed Cecil uncorked a left-hand pass to end Dick Johnson, but a five-yard penalty and two incomplete passes squelched the threat as the half ended.

Capt. Jack Fisher led Coach Gerard Calhoun's eleven to victory by scoring three touchdowns while Carroll Bohrer, Lowell Harmison and Jim Merica accounted for one each.

Before the quarter ended Berkeley scored four times. Fisher sprinted 87 yards for the second score and Harmison converted. Harmison set up the third score with a 23-yard run to the 2 from where Fisher toted it over. Harmison converted. Harmison made it 26-0 by racing 42 yards for the third score.

HAGERSTOWN, Oct. 22—Halfback Bob Andrews put on a one-man scoring show here tonight to lead the Fort Hill Sentinels to a 30 to 0 triumph over Coach Mel Henry's Hagerstown High School gridders.

The Sentinels' high scoring back racked up a total of 24 points by marking up three touchdowns, three conversions and a field goal to boost his season's output to 65 tallies.

Hagerstown held Allegany High of Cumberland to a 13-13 tie earlier in the season.

In the second quarter Wachter punted out of bounds on the Hagerstown 40 and the Sentinels marched from there to the 9. On fourth down Andrews' booted a field goal from the nine.

Bob Andrews intercepted Wachter's pass on the Fort Hill 42 and ran back to the Hubs' 46 early in the third period. Landis marked up first downs on the 33 and 17 and Crawford and Valentine moved the ball to the five from where Bob Andrews scored. His kick for the point, however, was blocked.

In the final period Fort Hill drove 33 yards after running back a punt to the 33. Landis made a first down on the 21. Crawford picked up nine yards and Landis sneaked to a first down on the 10. Andrews then took a pitchout for an end run and a touchdown. He also booted the point.

After the Sentinels returned a punt from the 50 to 38, Keslar gained six yards, Crawford marked up a first down on the 27, Andrews made a first on the 14 and Valentine toted the ball to the 5. Miami Tops Terps, 9-7

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 22 (AP)—An angry Miami football team, its bowl hopes blasted by an NCAA decree, virtually killed the post-season ambitions of another team, Maryland, by slashing to a 9-7 victory over the favored Terps here tonight.

Miami's Hurricanes, 7-point underdogs, played the massive Maryland team off its feet and not until the final four minutes, when their hopes were virtually dead, did the Terps finally launch a drive that put Dick Bielski across for their only touchdown.

Bob Nolan made a great leaping catch of a 21-yard touchdown pass from Mario Bonofiglio in the last 10 seconds of the first half and Johnny Bow's conversion sent Miami into the intermission with a 7-0 margin.

In the third, with Maryland pinned back a yard from its goal, the Hurricanes nailed down the winning points when Bob Nolan and Jack Losch burst through to knock down Ronnie Waller behind his goal line for a safety.

This Maryland defeat, coupled with an early-season loss to UCLA and a tie with Wake Forest, may have destroyed the Terps' chances of returning here next New Year's Day as the Atlantic Coast Conference representative in the Orange Bowl.

Maryland	0	0	0	7—7
Miami	0	7	2	0—9

Maryland scoring: Touchdown, Bielski. Conversion, Bielski.

A 45-yard off tackle dash by Lee Goldizen for a td climaxed Petersburg's 67-yard march in the third period to make the score 19-13. But Shannon Kline raced over from the 4 for Circleville to tie it up again at 19-19.

The Vikings drove 75 yards for a score in the final heat, Don Huffman registering for the third time on a gallop from 12 yards out. Harper's pass to Wayne Huffman produced the Indians' final six-pointer.

By TED TROXELL

An undefeated Martinsburg High eleven handed Coach Roy Lester's Allegany Campers their second straight loss of the 1954 season, with halfback Teddy Kershner leading the Bulldogs to their sixth win of the campaign, 20-0, last night at Fort Hill Stadium.

Kershner must hold a grudge against city schools, as the senior speed merchant scored both touchdowns in Martinsburg's 12-6 win over Fort Hill and last night personally accounted for one score and proved a constant thorn in the Campers' sides, with his superb running.

A fumble recovery set up the West Virginians' first score. The Bulldogs kicked off to Allegany, fullback "Ducky" Perdew returning the ball to his own 25-yard line. The Campers picked up a first down but then ran into trouble.

An offside penalty set them back to the 31 and "Bucky" Rice just managed to get back to the line of scrimmage on the next play. Haines then pitched out to Rice again and the Camper halfback started around right end. Just as he was hit by a Martinsburg defender, the ball squirted from his hands and Ken Harmon, alert Bulldog guard, pounced on it.

Dickie Lewis Scores

It took Coach John Cobourne's crew just seven plays to reach paydirt, with quarterback Dickie Lewis sneaking over from the three for the score. Lewis tacked on the extra point and Martinsburg led, 7-0. The two clubs battled on fairly even terms for the remainder of the half.

Right after the locals kicked off to start the second half, Kershner, on the first play from scrimmage, galloped 57 yards down the right sidelines before finally being hit by Alco's Ray Wharton on the Camper 21. At this point the Allegany forward wall rose to the occasion and prevented the Orange and Black from scoring.

However, the Campers, after taking over on downs, couldn't get their offensive attack started and were forced to punt. Kershner returned the ball to the Allegany 47. Two carries by Bernie Petrucci placed the oval on the 34 and Kershner took off on another long run, but this time didn't stop until reaching the end zone.

Taking a handoff from Lewis, he went around right end, where he was met by several would-be tacklers, but somehow managed to elude them. Lewis tacked on the point after.

Tally On Aerial

The Cobournites marched 85 yards for their final TD in the last period. After downing a Mike Lease punt on their own 15, they moved in seven plays to the Allegany goal. Included in the drive were two pass plays, one from Lewis to Kershner for 37 yards and the other from Lewis to end Ronnie Smallwood, which accounted for the score. The latter play covered 25 yards. It was the fifth touchdown pass Smallwood has snared this year.

The try for the point was partially blocked and went wide to the right. Danny Vance, sturdy Allegany tackle, and Bulldog fullback Dale Wroe were ejected from the game after a fight broke out when Lewis tried for the point.

The closest Allegany came to the goal line was in the second quarter when they drove to the Martinsburg 13, near the end of the quarter. Ed Cecil uncorked a left-hand pass to end Dick Johnson, but a five-yard penalty and two incomplete passes squelched the threat as the half ended.

Capt. Jack Fisher led Coach Gerard Calhoun's eleven to victory by scoring three touchdowns while Carroll Bohrer, Lowell Harmison and Jim Merica accounted for one each.

Before the quarter ended Berkeley scored four times. Fisher sprinted 87 yards for the second score and Harmison converted. Harmison set up the third score with a 23-yard run to the 2 from where Fisher toted it over. Harmison converted. Harmison made it 26-0 by racing 42 yards for the third score.

Ridgeley High School's Blackhawks struck for a pair of touchdowns in the first half and whipped the Romney High School Pioneers for the first time since 1948 in a Potomac Valley Conference game yesterday at Romney. The score was 14-12.

Kenny Hartman's two placement kicks was the margin of victory.

Ridgeley's last victory over the Hampshire Countians was by the score of 32-13 six years ago.

Glenn Straw got off a poor punt that traveled only five yards and Ronnie Nield caught the ball and sprinted 35 yards for the Hawks' first quarter score.

A 15-yard penalty set Romney back on its five-yard line in the second quarter and in two plays Coach Chet Payne's gridders had another score. Nield gained five yards on the first play and Donnie Wolford scored from the one.

Romney scored both of its touchdowns in the third period. Emory Landis galloped 20 yards for the first six-pointer and Mike Coleman contributed the second score on a 10-yard run.

John Smith's kick for the extra point failed and Ed Hartman, who attempted to carry the ball over after the second touchdown, was stopped.

A total of 60 yards in penalties were inflicted on the Pioneers in the first half of the contest.

HAGERSTOWN, Oct. 22—Halfback Bob Andrews put on a one-man scoring show here tonight to lead the Fort Hill Sentinels to a 30 to 0 triumph over Coach Mel Henry's Hagerstown High School gridders.

The Sentinels' high scoring back racked up a total of 24 points by marking up three touchdowns, three conversions and a field goal to boost his season's output to 65 tallies.

Hagerstown held Allegany High of Cumberland to a 13-13 tie earlier in the season.

Fort Hill's first score came in the opening period when George McKenney recovered a Hagerstown fumble in the end zone. Bob Andrews kicked the point. The Hubs had taken over after holding the visitors on the one-yard line prior to the score.

Scores Field Goal

In the second quarter Wachter punted out of bounds on the Hagerstown 40 and the Sentinels marched from there to the 9. On fourth down Andrews' booted a field goal from the nine.

Bob Andrews intercepted Wachter's pass on the Fort Hill 42 and ran back to the Hubs' 46 early in the third period. Landis marked up first downs on the 33 and 17 and Crawford and Valentine moved the ball to the five from where Bob Andrews scored. His kick for the point, however, was blocked.

In the final period Fort Hill drove 33 yards after running back a punt to the 33. Landis made a first down on the 21. Crawford picked up nine yards and Landis sneaked to a first down on the 10. Andrews then took a pitchout for an end run and a touchdown. He also booted the point.

March 38 To TD

Later in the same period Fort Hill marched 38 yards for a td. After the Sentinels returned a punt from the 50 to 38, Keslo gained six yards, Crawford marked up a first down on the 27, Andrews made a first on the 14 and Valentine toted the ball to the 5. Miami Tops Terps, 9-7

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 22 (AP)—An angry Miami football team, its bowl hopes blasted by an NCAA decree, virtually killed the postseason ambitions of another team, Maryland, by slashing to a 9-7 victory over the favored Terps here tonight.

Miami's Hurricanes, 7-point underdogs, played the massive Maryland team off its feet and not until the final four minutes, when their hopes were virtually dead, did the Terps finally launch a drive that put Dick Bielski across for their only touchdown.

Bob Nolan made a great leaping catch of a 21-yard touchdown pass from Mario Bonofiglio in the last 10 seconds of the first half and Johnny Bow's conversion sent Miami into the intermission with a 7-0 margin.

In the third, with Maryland pinned back a yard from its goal, the Hurricanes nailed down the winning points when Bob Nolan and Jack Losch burst through to knock down Ronnie Waller behind his goal line for a safety.

This Maryland defeat, coupled with an early-season loss to UCLA and a tie with Wake Forest, may have destroyed the Terps' chances of returning here next New Year's Day as the Atlantic Coast Conference representative in the Orange Bowl.

Miami	0	7	2	0	—9

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

A speech expert can advise you not to talk as rapidly as you do, or as slowly, but there is no blanket rule defining a vocal speed limit. The best general rule is to gear your words for understanding.

Some voices are like racing cars — off to a quick start, and maintaing a high speed. Others are like the family bus rambling its leisurely way along the back roads. Either speed is permissible at times, but it shouldn't become constant practice.

You use a voice that is exactly like yourself. Always pushed to high speed, it suggests that you are a nervous or excitable person. A slow drawl declares you a plodder. The reasonable and proper rate states that you're capable and at ease.

The Extremes

If you are frequently asked to repeat what you've said, you may be quite sure of talking too fast. When people lose interest, either your topic is dull, or you're taking too long to say what you have to say. Surely, at one time of another, you've conversed with someone whose speech you had to draw out, word by word. Don't put yourself in that other's place!

You can make your voice stronger, clearer, more musical and delightful to hear. You can speed up or slow down, with equally successful results in "listenability." As a speed-up measure, think of words before you say them (this avoids halt or hesitation). To slow down, think of words as you say them. Such correctives lead to more comprehensible speech.

Conversation flows more easily when you control your speed so that others can follow. You'll not leave your companions stranded in the middle of the last sentence, or waiting for you to catch up at the middle of your next. Then, too, you can race or lag, momentarily, to stress important phrases.

Game Of Signals

Ask a friend to help you set your best speed limit by a sign of caution — "too fast" or "too slow" for understanding. Once aware of the danger signs, read aloud to practice the pace that's most satisfactory for you — and your listeners.

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice — one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success — by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness, and lack of proper modulation. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin.

At The Tracks

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

A speech expert can advise you not to talk as rapidly as you do, or as slowly, but there is no blanket rule defining a vocal speed limit. The best general rule is to gear your words for understanding.

Some voices are like racing cars — off to a quick start, and maintaing a high speed. Others are like the family bus rambling its leisurely way along the back roads. Either speed is permissible at times, but it shouldn't become constant practice.

You use a voice that is exactly like yourself. Always pushed to high speed, it suggests that you are a nervous or excitable person. A slow drawl declares you a plodder. The reasonable and proper rate states that you're capable and at ease.

The Extremes

If you are frequently asked to repeat what you've said, you may be quite sure of talking too fast. When people lose interest, either your topic is dull, or you're taking too long to say what you have to say. Surely, at one time of another, you've conversed with someone whose speech you had to draw out, word by word. Don't put yourself in that other's place!

You can make your voice stronger, clearer, more musical and delightful to hear. You can speed up or slow down, with equally successful results in "listenability." As a speed-up measure, think of words before you say them (this avoids halt or hesitation). To slow down, think of words as you say them. Such correctives lead to more comprehensible speech.

Conversation flows more easily when you control your speed so that others can follow. You'll not leave your companions stranded in the middle of the last sentence, or waiting for you to catch up at the middle of your next. Then, too, you can race or lag, momentarily, to stress important phrases.

Game Of Signals

Ask a friend to help you set your best speed limit by a sign of caution — "too fast" or "too slow" for understanding. Once aware of the danger signs, read aloud to practice the pace that's most satisfactory for you — and your listeners.

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice — one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success — by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness, and lack of proper modulation. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin,

THE QUESTION BOX!

Q. WHAT DOES A LEADING AUTHORITY SAY ABOUT THE IMPORTANCE OF TELEVISION?

A. Senator Johnston, of Colorado, said that "television is Humanity's greatest single blessing." So you certainly need television.

Don't let anyone "talk you into taking the wrong road," and if you are on the wrong road, it is better to get on the right road, as soon as possible; and we mean using direct antenna.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Barclay

USE YOUR REPUTATION

YOUR reputation can be either an asset or a liability to you. If you know what your opponents think of you, there will be occasional opportunities to make use of it. They may be lured into doing just what you most desire.

	♠ None ♥ J 8 7 6 5 4 2 ♦ K Q 9 8 6 5 ♣ None
♠ K 10 9 8 2 ♥ A Q ♦ A ♣ A 10 6 5 3	N W E S	♠ Q J ♥ K 9 3 ♦ None ♣ K Q J 9 8 7 4 2
	♠ A 7 6 5 4 3 ♥ 10 ♦ J 10 7 4 3 2 ♣ None

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	2 ♠
3 ♣	Dbl.	Pass	5 ♣
5 ♦	6 ♣	Pass	Pass
6 ♦	Pass	Pass	Dbl.

Both members of the North-South pair being fierce competitors, and tricky ones at that, it was more or less normal for South to open the bidding third-hand when not vulnerable against vulnerable opponents. His choice of diamonds instead of spades was a slight departure from his custom, but a lucky one.

North knew that, if he later supported diamonds, a bid of clubs from him now would sound to the opponents like an effort to prevent the lead of that suit. It did, and to show it up East doubled. West's bid of clubs after that was in its natural meaning, as that pair had agreed all suit bids by them would have been against the tricksters.

When North finally went to 6-Diamonds, West felt sure he knew exactly the best defense, He put forth the club A and was wild-eyed when he saw the dummy trump it as South discarded the singleton heart.

A gigantic cross-ruff then began, South trumping hearts and dummy spades until several hearts were established. West thereupon ruffed with the diamond A for the only trick his side got.

Imagine making a slam with only 11 count against the opponents' 29 by the 4-3-2-1 method, when the strong side could have scored 12 tricks at No Trumps.

West, against such a pair, should have laid down the diamond A at the start, to have a look. What he saw would have caused him to score the other red A, beating the contract.

Your Week-End Question

If your own side clearly has the preponderant strength, what two main purposes are your opponents pursuing if they interrupt your bidding with calls of their own?

Daily Bridge Lesson

USE YOUR REPUTATION

YOUR reputation can be either an asset or a liability to you. If you know what your opponents think of you, there will be occasional opportunities to make use of it. They may be lured into doing just what you most desire.

	♠ None ♥ J 8 7 6 5 4 2 ♦ K Q 9 8 6 5 ♣ None
♠ K 10 9 8 2 ♥ A Q ♦ A ♣ A 10 6 5 3	N W E S	♠ Q J ♥ K 9 3 ♦ None ♣ K Q J 9 8 7 4 2
	♠ A 7 6 5 4 3 ♥ 10 ♦ J 10 7 4 3 2 ♣ None

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	2 ♠
3 ♣	Dbl.	Pass	5 ♣
5 ♦	6 ♣	Pass	Pass
6 ♦	Pass	Pass	Dbl.

Both members of the North-South pair being fierce competitors, and tricky ones at that, it was more or less normal for South to open the bidding third-hand when not vulnerable against vulnerable opponents. His choice of diamonds instead of spades was a slight departure from his custom, but a lucky one.

North knew that, if he later supported diamonds, a bid of clubs from him now would sound to the opponents like an effort to prevent the lead of that suit. It did, and to show it up East doubled. West's bid of clubs after that was in its natural meaning, as that pair had agreed all suit bids by them would have been against the tricksters.

When North finally went to 6-Diamonds, West felt sure he knew exactly the best defense. He put forth the club A and was wild-eyed when he saw the dummy trump it as South discarded the singleton heart.

A gigantic cross-ruff then began, South trumping hearts and dummy spades until several hearts were established. West thereupon ruffed with the diamond A for the only trick his side got.

Imagine making a slam with only 11 count against the opponents' 29 by the 4-3-2-1 method, when the strong side could have scored 12 tricks at No Trumps.

West, against such a pair, should have laid down the diamond A at the start, to have a look. What he saw would have caused him to score the other red A, beating the contract.

* * *

Your Week-End Question

If your own side clearly has the preponderant strength, what two main purposes are your opponents pursuing if they interrupt your bidding with calls of their own?

Good Gains, Some Declines Make An Irregular Market

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (AP)—Good-sized gains by selected issues were offset by numerous fractional declines in the stock market today, making for an irregular picture over all.

Fractional advances by stocks like General Electric, DuPont and General Motors helped pull the Associated Press average of 60 stocks up 20 cents to $136.80. Volume totaled 2,080,000 shares, down from yesterday's 2,320,000.

Masonite climbed 2 at 23½, Budd Manufacturing was active with a small fractional gain, and Industrial Rayon rose 1¼ at 45½.

U. S. Gypsum was ahead 2¼ at 197¼ on a fine earnings report. Louisville & Nashville moved up more than a point on declaration of an extra dividend. Allis Chalmers was active and up a couple.

Schenley, heavily traded yesterday, appeared frequently on the tape today and ended with a gain of 1¼ at 21¾. Western Union was up 1 at 59 on persistent buying.

Most of the steels were down, with Inland off better than a point. Also in the loss column were Goodyear, Douglas, Boeing, Radio Corp. American Telephone, Homestake, American Cyanamid, Royal Dutch Petroleum, International Paper, New York Central and Standard Oil (Indiana).

At the top of the most active list was Glenn Martin, aircraft manufacturer, with a gain of ⅝ at 33⅛ on 52,300 shares. Brokers attributed the buying to expectations of favorable dividend action. Fairchild Engine, with a loss of ⅝, was fourth on the list.

Wilson Raises Voting Issues

These questions he presented to the audience concerning incumbent Senator Robert B. Kimble:

"Why are license fees as charged by public local laws for certain beer and whisky license in Allegany County twice the amount as is provided by the general state law?"

"Why has not the recreation area on Dan's Mountain been further developed to provide recreational facilities for residents of the Georges Creek area?"

"Why are Allegany County citizens and public officials required to go to Annapolis during General Assembly sessions to discuss local legislation when meetings could be arranged in this county every weekend?"

"Why can't Maryland institutions be required to use Maryland coal?"

"Did not some member of my opponent's family hold a second senatorial scholarship and was an examination conducted when the scholarship for Western Maryland College was awarded?"

Westernport Women To Meet Today

WESTERNPORT — The regular meeting of Westernport Homemakers Club will be held today at 7:30 p. m. at Piedmont Presbyterian Church.

All members of the club are asked to bring their donations of food and clothing so they can be turned over to the United Organizations for distribution.

Mrs. Thomas Dolan, nutrition chairman, will have charge of the program on, "Quick and Easy Meals."

Members planning to attend the National meeting of the Homemakers Club in Washington, November 1 should make reservations which must be sent in by October 25.

The hostesses of the meeting will be Mrs. Cora Hopkins, Mrs. Dunlap, Mrs. Kemper Cline and Mrs. Martin Weakley.

Mrs. Joseph Love will collect the Blue Cross dues.

Magistrate Defers Sentencing Youths

Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick yesterday morning deferred sentencing two local teenage youths on charges of unauthorized use of a vehicle, pending further investigation of the case by Lt. James E. Van of the City Detective Bureau.

The youths, Richard Lee Spencer and Harold L. Walters, were arrested earlier this week by Lt. Van on warrants charging them with the theft of the car of Norman Taylor, 771 Fayette Street.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Good Gains, Some Declines Make An Irregular Market

Wilson Raises Voting Issues

William L. Wilson Jr., the Democratic candidate for State Senate from Allegany County, Wednesday night at a Democratic rally at Frostburg asked his Republican opponent several pertinent questions.

These questions he presented to the audience concerning incumbent Senator Robert B. Kimble:

"Why are license fees as charged by public local laws for certain beer and whisky license in Allegany County twice the amount as is provided by the general state law?"

"Why has not the recreation area on Dan's Mountain been further developed to provide recreational facilities for residents of the Georges Creek area?"

"Why are Allegany County citizens and public officials required to go to Annapolis during General Assembly sessions to discuss local legislation when meetings could be arranged in this county every weekend?"

"Why can't Maryland institutions be required to use Maryland coal?"

"Did not some member of my opponent's family hold a second senatorial scholarship and was an examination conducted when the scholarship for Western Maryland College was awarded?"

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Criminal Appeal Cases Heard In Circuit Court

Several Men Win Acquittal

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris heard a number of criminal appeals yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Jacob Mullinax of Williams Road was found guilty of trespassing upon the property of Bernard O'Baker and Judge Harris fined him $100. However, Judge Harris suspended the fine until an equity suit involving the two men is settled.

Mullinax, represented by Attorney Clarence Shutter, appealed a conviction by Magistrate J. Milton Dick, who had given him a 30-day sentence in the County Jail which was suspended provided he remains off of O'Baker's property.

Term Suspended

William Glenn Sponaugle was given a one-year term in the Maryland House of Correction after he pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of five minor children between six and 16 years old. Judge Harris suspended the sentence on condition that Sponaugle stay away from Cumberland, be of good behavior, attend church regularly and abstain from the use of alcohol. Magistrate Morris Baron had given the defendant one year in the House of Correction.

Russell Ray Jones of Boynton, Pa., pleaded guilty before Judge Harris to non-support of his wife and four children. He received a two-year sentence in the Maryland House of Correction, which was suspended on provision that he abstain from the use of alcohol and pay $25 per week through Juvenile Court for support of his wife and family. Juvenile Court Magistrate Alban C. Thompson had sentenced him to one year in the House of Correction.

Two other defendants were found not guilty when their cases were heard.

One was Larry Graham Patton, 879 Maryland Avenue. In the lower court, Magistrate Donald W. Mason had found Patton guilty of assaulting a North End girl on Fairview Avenue and sentenced him to two years in the House of Correction.

Another Acquitted

Also acquitted by Judge Harris was Ernest Keith Kelly of Westernport. He had appealed a decision of Trial Magistrate Carl W. Shaffer, who had fined him $5 and costs on a reckless driving charge. Judge Harris granted a motion by Attorney Louis A. Fatkin for a directed verdict of acquittal in the case.

Three other appeals were dismissed on motion of Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty.

One involved Leo Franklin Barkman, 314 Park Street, who had been fined $15 and costs by Magistrate Dick on a reckless driving charge. Also dropped by the state was the case against James C. Beane of McCoole, who had been fined $25 and paroled for one year by Magistrate Shaffer on a charge of disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace at Rawlings.

Also dismissed were two driving charges against William J. Beverlin of Fort Ashby, W. Va. He had been fined $100 on one and $25 on the other by Magistrate Mason.

Three other defendants, who had appealed to Circuit Court, dropped their appeals, thereby affirming their convictions in the lower court.

One of them, Paul Glenn Poland of 6 Turner Street, had been fined $25 by Magistrate Mason on a reckless driving charge. Another involved Carlton M. Wright who had been found guilty by Magistrate Baron of contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year old boy. The other one concerned Brooks M. Crites, Mill Run Road, Oldtown, who had been found guilty by Magistrate Mason of non-support of his wife and child. He was ordered to pay $10 a week through Juvenile Court for their support.

School Needs Are Discussed

A five-member committee from the West Side School PTA met yesterday afternoon with Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster for a general discussion of overcrowded conditions there.

Webster said that one idea discussed was the possibility of cutting off the end of the school cafeteria and building two extra classrooms there. The school has an enrollment now of 488 pupils, including a number from Bowman's Addition and Bowling Green.

The superintendent agreed that there is a need for additional facilities but regretfully reminded the group that the current $3,500,000 building program will not solve that problem.

In his original $6,000,000 program, subsequently curtailed by the General Assembly in early 1953, he had included a new Bowman's Addition Elementary School and another in the Bowling Green-Potomac Park area. Both had to be shelved when the compromise $3,500,000 program was approved.

Once Upon A Time . . .

Nurses on duty are kept busy with their patients but at times they are able to take a little time off for relaxation. Mrs. Jean MacFarlane, acting supervisor of the Pediatrics Ward yesterday afternoon at Memorial Hospital, listened to a story being told to her by one of the patients. The interesting story was being told by nine-year-old Jimmy Johnson, who attends the Romney School for the Blind. He didn't seem to have much difficulty in spite of the fact that he is blind and his left arm was in a cast. Jimmy, who has been in the hospital since October 3, returned to Romney yesterday shortly after telling his nurse a farewell story.

Use Of Radar Meter Will Be Resumed Soon

The use of radar equipment to check speeding in Cumberland will be resumed when several newly appointed patrolmen are ready for regular duty, Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan announced yesterday.

The commissioner said the department has had requests from several sections of the city, asking that the radar equipment be utilized.

One of the reports came from the South Cumberland Business Men's Association and concerned speeding on Virginia Avenue and bottlenecks at subways when the day shift leaves the B&O Shops.

Commissioner Keegan said Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn has notified the association that the day shift of the Police Department has been operating with a maximum shift of 14 men, due to the illness of three members of the force.

He added that the radar device requires the services of two men, and that at present they cannot be spared to allow regular operation of the radar speedmeter.

Chief Flynn said, however, that the Mayor and Council has allotted the department three more men, that two of them are being educated in police work, and that as soon as possible, the speeding situation will be corrected.

Whitworth To File Writ Personally In Baltimore Court

Delegate Horace P. Whitworth Jr. said last night that mandamus proceedings slated to be filed in Baltimore yesterday will be instituted on Monday.

He said he will personally file and argue in Baltimore City Court the petition for a court order directing the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland to make available an accreditation report issued by the Middle States Association of Colleges.

Delegate Whitworth said the Baltimore attorney who was to have filed the suit notified him early last night that he was not in a position to handle the case.

Blind Boy Returns To School After Stay In Local Hospital

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Yesterday afternoon was "Happy Reunion Day" for nine-year-old Jimmy Johnson, a pupil in the first grade of the Romney School for the Blind, who returned to that community, after spending the past two weeks in Memorial Hospital while his left arm, broken in a fall, was "on the mend."

The carefree, sandy-haired child, who is always wearing a big smile, didn't let himself get behind in his reading, and continued his studies although he may have a little trouble with one hand using his primer.

Jimmy, whose home is in Buffalo, W. Va., seemed to be right at home in the hospital where he met a number of friends in the Pediatrics Ward, but apparently favored getting back to Romney and his school pals.

While Jimmy was playing outdoors recently, according to his teacher, Mrs. Selden Brannon, he climbed a bar located near a drinking fountain and before a supervisor could get to him he fell and broke his arm. He was brought to Cumberland for hospitalization.

His teacher, who remarked that he gets along with everyone and is most energetic, said that his "greatest love" is his participation in physical education activities. He gets a lot of fun out of tumbling and building pyramids with other pupils.

Last year Jimmy came to Romney from his home near Charleston, W. Va., and for the first year was put in the kindergarten where he learned to meet other children and become accustomed to his new surroundings.

When Jimmy got off the bus this year and realized he would have a party in his honor on his birthday, September 18, he shouted to his teacher, "Oh Mrs. Brannon, I'll be the first birthday cake boy."

Pupils of the first two grades helped him celebrate and after the candles of the cake were blown out a successful party with cake and tonic was held in the snack bar at the school.

A favorite extra-curricular activity of Jimmy's is to attend the weekly movies, mostly musicals and cowboy shows. As the children listen to the dialogue, teachers tell them of the action on the screen.

Jimmy will now go to the hospital at the Romney School and after spending some time there will be under the care of his house mother, Miss Mary Painter, who will see to it he stays out of mischief until his left arm is completely mended.

As he progresses in school he will learn the same subjects taught in the regular public schools. When he goes home during vacations to see his four brothers, his sister and his mother, Mrs. Inez Johnson, Jimmy will be able to be up-to-date with their conversation.

At present, aside from learning to read by the Braille system, young Jimmy is progressing well in writing Braille and likes to count with numbers, but most of all he likes to get away from the books and head for the gymnasium and physical education.

His teacher's best description of Jimmy is his "wonderful smile" and the fact that he is not afraid of anything and is always on the move.

This can be verified very well by personnel of Memorial Hospital who bade him farewell yesterday afternoon as he returned to Romney and his schoolmates.

Zion Church To Dedicate New Organ

Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, North Mechanic Street, will hold special morning and evening services Sunday, marking the dedication of its new pipe organ.

Rev. Harvey W. Black, Jeanette, Pa., will be guest speaker at the service at 10:45 a. m. He will speak on the theme, "The Living Church."

Rev. Black is president of Pittsburgh Synod of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, of which Zion Church is a part.

A special program of organ music will be presented at 7:30 p. m. by Mrs. Samuel Weatherholt, organist of First Presbyterian Church, and Mrs. A. C. Emerick, organist of Zion Church. The vocal program includes a duet by Mrs. Emerick and Miss Helen Mae Kreiling and choral selections, "The Cherubim's Song," Bortiansky, and the "Hallelujah Chorus," Handel, by the choir.

The pastor, Rev. Raymond A. Faulds, reports that the new organ was rebuilt from the old organ during the summer months and was completed and installed during the early part of September. As a result of rebuilding and replacing many parts of the organ, the size was nearly doubled.

City Is Preparing Plans For Water Line To Plant

Plans for the city water line to the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's plant at North Branch are being expedited by William E. Piper, local civil engineer.

Piper was employed on a contract basis early this month to assist the City Engineering Department with planning work and inspection of the line which will supply water for domestic and emergency fire protection purposes for the $34,000,000 plant.

Mayor Roy W. Eves announced yesterday that the city expects to advertise for bids on the new line early in December, since costs must be known before the city asks the General Assembly to authorize bonds for the line.

Piper, who lives at 822 Windsor Road, is a native of Lapeer, Ind., and holds B. S. M.E. and C.E. degrees in mechanical and civil engineering from Michigan State College and Cornell University.

He formerly held posts as instructor in civil engineering at Cornell and as assistant professor of industrial engineering at the University of Delaware.

Piper's municipal engineering career includes work on sewer construction at Flint, Mich., and water supply and distribution, sewers, roads and flood protection at Grand Rapids, Mich.

His career has also included industrial plant design work. He served as chief of design for the Hercules Powder Company in World War 1, a powder loading plant in World War II and a pilot rocket plant in the Korean War. He also served as project engineer for duPont in the design and construction of automobile plants and an agricultural implement plant.

Vandalism Crackdown Under Way

A crackdown on pre-Halloween vandalism, which has been reported in the Mt. Savage area, is now under way and authorities warned that individuals or groups caught in the act will be prosecuted to the fullest extent in court.

Constable Charles L. Albright last night said there has been a wave of destruction of property in that community including the razing of fences and the breaking of milk bottles tossed against private dwellings.

Albright said the parents of any children caught will also be taken to Juvenile Court for prosecution. At least 11 auxiliary police are now patrolling the Mt. Savage area in an effort to catch the culprits.

Other destructive pranks such as the scratching of automobiles will not be tolerated, Albright added.

The children are expected to have some fun at this time of year, but the wilful destruction of property will be curbed and court action will be taken when offenders are caught, he added.

$1,176 Is Found In Westernport Rabbit Hutch

Money Believed Part Of Bank Robbery Loot

Federal, county and state officers, searching for loot in an Ohio bank robbery, found $1,176.03 in a rabbit hutch on the premises of a suspect's father in Westernport.

Albert Duaine Grove, 22, formerly of Piedmont, had been arrested at the home of his father, Scott Grove, Wood Street Extended, about 24 hours earlier on a warrant charging him with the armed robbery of the Roseville Federal Savings and Loan Association in Roseville, Ohio, Wednesday.

Grove was given a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon before United States Commissioner George Ludwig in Keyser and was held under $25,000 bond. He was removed to the Marion County Jail in Fairmont in default, pending his removal to Ohio.

Authorities said that two men, one of them masked, entered the Ohio bank while a lone employe, Mrs. Margaret Dittler, was in charge. They tied her in a closet after pointing a sawed-off shotgun at her and taking $6,226.38 from cash drawers and a safe.

Making the arrest in Westernport were Trooper M. G. Hart of the Maryland State Police, Cpl. Frank Tribett of the West Virginia State Police, Chief J. W. Griffith and Officer Burza Hanlin of the Westernport Police Department and Chief J. A. Harrison of the Piedmont Police Department.

Another man accused of the robbery led authorities to a cemetery where they recovered $2,989 of the money taken in the holdup.

Sheriff David Weissert of Zanesville, Ohio, said Louis W. Graves, 30, of Zanesville, led a group of officers and FBI agents to a spot in the Woodlawn Cemetery near Zanesville, where the money had been placed in a brown paper sack under a clump of bushes.

Later, the sheriff said, Graves led them to the bank of Jonathan's Creek near South Zanesville where a shotgun said to have been used in the holdup and an empty money box taken from the bank were recovered.

The sheriff said the FBI planned to arraign Graves on a federal bank robbery charge before U. S. Commissioner Homer E. Walter. Graves' brother, Frank Graves, 28, also of Zanesville, is sought in the robbery.

Grove will be returned to Roseville to face the federal charges. Officers said Grove had no money in his possession when he was arrested.

The search for Frank Graves last centered around Columbus, Ohio. Thomas Alexander, Zanesville, told authorities he drove Frank Graves to Columbus Wednesday night, a few hours after the holdup.

Frostburg Plans Luncheon For GOP Caravan

The Women's Republican Club of Frostburg has completed plans for a luncheon next Tuesday when state and county Republican candidates headed by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin stop in that city during an Allegany County caravan.

The luncheon will be held at 1 p. m. in the Young Men's Republican Club, East Main Street.

The caravan is being planned by James S. Getty, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County and J. Glenn Beall Jr., of Frostburg.

With Governor McKeldin will be Edward D. E. Rollins, candidate for attorney general; Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde, State Senator Robert B. Kimble, members of the County Delegation to the General Assembly, GOP candidates and Sheriff Edward R. Muir and his deputies.

Other guests will be members of the Republican State Central Committee and Mrs. George Barncord, vice chairman of the 6th District State Central Committee.

All members of the club have been invited to attend.

The reception committee will be headed by U. S. Senator and Mrs. J. Glenn Beall, Frostburg Mayor and Mrs. Perry Myers, Mrs. Noel Speir Cook, state treasurer of the Federation of GOP Women's Republican Club; Mrs. David Powell and Mrs. Eldred Van Fossen, vice presidents; Mrs. William H. Lemmert, secretary, and Mrs. Walter Jeffries, treasurer of the Frostburg Women's Republican Club.

Women Protest Poor Drainage

Three women yesterday submitted letters of protest to the Allegany County Commissioners concerning poor drainage conditions in their areas which were emphasized by the high water last week.

Mrs. Anna Jones, Moscow Street, Barton, wrote that the pipe in front of her house is not large enough to carry off the water. For the past 20 years, she said, cellars have been filled with water whenever there has been high water.

Grace B. Snider stated in her letter that she had written to the commissioners July 17 about the washout from Cash Valley Road onto a public road leading from Cash Valley to the Mt. Savage Road and nothing has been done to remedy the situation.

She said it is a public road because the property of four taxpayers bound it. She concluded with a statement that the heavy rain of October 15 had cut another foot in the gorge that had been put there by an earlier heavy rain about July 15.

Mrs. Martha Duckworth, RFD 1, Frostburg, wrote that since the last heavy rain the road leading to her property in Loartown has washed so badly that it is almost impossible to bring a car over it. She said she hoped some work could be done on it before cold weather comes.

All three complaints were referred to J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor.

Criminal Appeal Cases Heard In Circuit Court

Several Men Win Acquittal

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris heard a number of criminal appeals yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Jacob Mullinax of Williams Road was found guilty of trespassing upon the property of Bernard O'Baker and Judge Harris fined him $100. However, Judge Harris suspended the fine until an equity suit involving the two men is settled.

Mullinax, represented by Attorney Clarence Shutter, appealed a conviction by Magistrate J. Milton Dick, who had given him a 30-day sentence in the County Jail which was suspended provided he remains off of O'Baker's property.

Term Suspended

William Glenn Sponaugle was given a one-year term in the Maryland House of Correction after he pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of five minor children between six and 16 years old. Judge Harris suspended the sentence on condition that Sponaugle stay away from Cumberland, be of good behavior, attend church regularly and abstain from the use of alcohol. Magistrate Morris Baron had given the defendant one year in the House of Correction.

Russell Ray Jones of Boynton, Pa., pleaded guilty before Judge Harris to non-support of his wife and four children. He received a two-year sentence in the Maryland House of Correction, which was suspended on provision that he abstain from the use of alcohol and pay $25 per week through Juvenile Court for support of his wife and family. Juvenile Court Magistrate Alban C. Thompson had sentenced him to one year in the House of Correction.

Two other defendants were found not guilty when their cases were heard.

One was Larry Graham Patton, 879 Maryland Avenue. In the lower court, Magistrate Donald W. Mason had found Patton guilty of assaulting a North End girl on Fairview Avenue and sentenced him to two years in the House of Correction.

Another Acquitted

Also acquitted by Judge Harris was Ernest Keith Kelly of Westernport. He had appealed a decision of Trial Magistrate Carl W. Shaffer, who had fined him $5 and costs on a reckless driving charge. Judge Harris granted a motion by Attorney Louis A. Fatkin for a directed verdict of acquittal in the case.

Three other appeals were dismissed on motion of Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty.

One involved Leo Franklin Barkman, 314 Park Street, who had been fined $15 and costs by Magistrate Dick on a reckless driving charge. Also dropped by the state was the case against James C. Beane of McCoole, who had been fined $25 and paroled for one year by Magistrate Shaffer on a charge of disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace at Rawlings.

Also dismissed were two driving charges against William J. Beverlin of Fort Ashby, W. Va. He had been fined $100 on one and $25 on the other by Magistrate Mason.

Three other defendants, who had appealed to Circuit Court, dropped their appeals, thereby affirming their convictions in the lower court.

One of them, Paul Glenn Poland of 6 Turner Street, had been fined $25 by Magistrate Mason on a reckless driving charge. Another involved Carlton M. Wright who had been found guilty by Magistrate Baron of contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year old boy. The other one concerned Brooks M. Crites, Mill Run Road, Oldtown, who had been found guilty by Magistrate Mason of non-support of his wife and child. He was ordered to pay $10 a week through Juvenile Court for their support.

School Needs Are Discussed

A five-member committee from the West Side School PTA met yesterday afternoon with Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster for a general discussion of overcrowded conditions there.

Webster said that one idea discussed was the possibility of cutting off the end of the school cafeteria and building two extra classrooms there. The school has an enrollment now of 488 pupils, including a number from Bowman's Addition and Bowling Green.

The superintendent agreed that there is a need for additional facilities but regretfully reminded the group that the current $3,500,000 building program will not solve that problem.

In his original $6,000,000 program, subsequently curtailed by the General Assembly in early 1953, he had included a new Bowman's Addition Elementary School and another in the Bowling Green-Potomac Park area. Both had to be shelved when the compromise $3,500,000 program was approved.

Evangelistic Services

Rev. Owen G. Stultz will conduct Church of the Brethren evangelistic services to be held October 18 through the 24th at the Harness Run School. The services will begin each evening at 7 p.m.

Once Upon A Time . . .

Nurses on duty are kept busy with their patients but at times they are able to take a little time off for relaxation. Mrs. Jean MacFarlane, acting supervisor of the Pediatrics Ward yesterday afternoon at Memorial Hospital, listened to a story being told to her by one of the patients. The interesting story was being told by nine-year-old Jimmy Johnson, who attends the Romney School for the Blind. He didn't seem to have much difficulty in spite of the fact that he is blind and his left arm was in a cast. Jimmy, who has been in the hospital since October 3, returned to Romney yesterday shortly after telling his nurse a farewell story.

Use Of Radar Meter Will Be Resumed Soon

The use of radar equipment to check speeding in Cumberland will be resumed when several newly appointed patrolmen are ready for regular duty, Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan announced yesterday.

The commissioner said the department has had requests from several sections of the city, asking that the radar equipment be utilized.

One of the reports came from the South Cumberland Business Men's Association and concerned speeding on Virginia Avenue and bottlenecks at subways when the day shift leaves the B&O Shops.

Commissioner Keegan said Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn has notified the association that the day shift of the Police Department has been operating with a maximum shift of 14 men, due to the illness of three members of the force.

He added that the radar device requires the services of two men, and that at present they cannot be spared to allow regular operation of the radar speedmeter.

Chief Flynn said, however, that the Mayor and Council has allotted the department three more men, that two of them are being educated in police work, and that as soon as possible, the speeding situation will be corrected.

Whitworth To File Writ Personally In Baltimore Court

Delegate Horace P. Whitworth Jr. said last night that mandamus proceedings slated to be filed in Baltimore yesterday will be instituted on Monday.

He said he will personally file and argue in Baltimore City Court the petition for a court order directing the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland to make available an accreditation report issued by the Middle States Association of Colleges.

Delegate Whitworth said the Baltimore attorney who was to have filed the suit notified him early last night that he was not in a position to handle the case.

Blind Boy Returns To School After Stay In Local Hospital

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Yesterday afternoon was "Happy Reunion Day" for nine-year-old Jimmy Johnson, a pupil in the first grade of the Romney School for the Blind, who returned to that community, after spending the past two weeks in Memorial Hospital while his left arm, broken in a fall, was "on the mend."

The carefree, sandy-haired child, who is always wearing a big smile, didn't let himself get behind in his reading, and continued his studies although he may have a little trouble with one hand using his primer.

Jimmy, whose home is in Buffalo, W. Va., seemed to be right at home in the hospital where he met a number of friends in the Pediatrics Ward, but apparently favored getting back to Romney and his school pals.

While Jimmy was playing outdoors recently, according to his teacher, Mrs. Selden Brannon, he climbed a bar located near a drinking fountain and before a supervisor could get to him he fell and broke his arm. He was brought to Cumberland for hospitalization.

His teacher, who remarked that he gets along with everyone and is most energetic, said that his "greatest love" is his participation in physical education activities. He gets a lot of fun out of tumbling and building pyramids with other pupils.

Last year Jimmy came to Romney from his home near Charleston, W. Va., and for the first year was put in the kindergarten where he learned to meet other children and become accustomed to his new surroundings.

When Jimmy got off the bus this year and realized he would have a party in his honor on his birthday, September 18, he shouted to his teacher, "Oh Mrs. Brannon, I'll be the first birthday cake boy."

Pupils of the first two grades helped him celebrate and after the candles of the cake were blown out a successful party with cake and tonic was held in the snack bar at the school.

A favorite extra-curricular activity of Jimmy's is to attend the weekly movies, mostly musicals and cowboy shows. As the children listen to the dialogue, teachers tell them of the action on the screen.

Jimmy will now go to the hospital at the Romney School and after spending some time there will be under the care of his house mother, Miss Mary Painter, who will see to it he stays out of mischief until his left arm is completely mended.

As he progresses in school he will learn the same subjects taught in the regular public schools. When he goes home during vacations to see his four brothers, his sister and his mother, Mrs. Inez Johnson, Jimmy will be able to be up-to-date with their conversation.

At present, aside from learning to read by the Braille system, young Jimmy is progressing well in writing Braille and likes to count with numbers, but most of all he likes to get away from the books and head for the gymnasium and physical education.

His teacher's best description of Jimmy is his "wonderful smile" and the fact that he is not afraid of anything and is always on the move.

This can be verified very well by personnel of Memorial Hospital who bade him farewell yesterday afternoon as he returned to Romney and his schoolmates.

City Is Preparing Plans For Water Line To Plant

Plans for the city water line to the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's plant at North Branch are being expedited by William E. Piper, local civil engineer.

Piper was employed on a contract basis early this month to assist the City Engineering Department with planning work and inspection of the line which will supply water for domestic and emergency fire protection purposes for the $34,000,000 plant.

Mayor Roy W. Eves announced yesterday that the city expects to advertise for bids on the new line early in December, since costs must be known before the city asks the General Assembly to authorize bonds for the line.

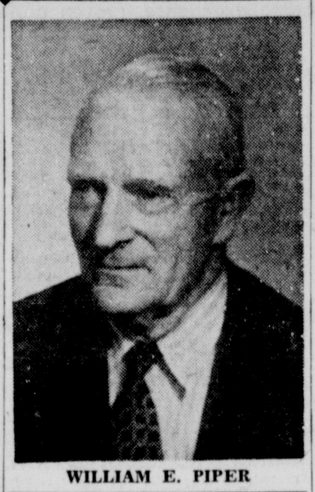

Piper, who lives at 822 Windsor Road, is a native of Lapeer, Ind., and holds B. S. M.E. and C.E. degrees in mechanical and civil engineering from Michigan State College and Cornell University.

He formerly held posts as instructor in civil engineering at Cornell and as assistant professor of industrial engineering at the University of Delaware.

Piper's municipal engineering career includes work on sewer construction at Flint, Mich., and water supply and distribution, sewers, roads and flood protection at Grand Rapids, Mich.

His career has also included industrial plant design work. He served as chief of design for the Hercules Powder Company in World War I, a powder loading plant in World War II and a pilot rocket plant in the Korean War. He also served as project engineer for duPont in the design and construction of automobile plants and an agricultural implement plant.

Vandalism Crackdown Under Way

A crackdown on pre-Halloween vandalism, which has been reported in the Mt. Savage area, is now under way and authorities warned that individuals or groups caught in the act will be prosecuted to the fullest extent in court.

Constable Charles L. Albright last night said there has been a wave of destruction of property in that community including the razing of fences and the breaking of milk bottles tossed against private dwellings.

Albright said the parents of any children caught will also be taken to Juvenile Court for prosecution. At least 11 auxiliary police are now patrolling the Mt. Savage area in an effort to catch the culprits.

Other destructive pranks such as the scratching of automobiles will not be tolerated, Albright added.

The children are expected to have some fun at this time of year, but the wilful destruction of property will be curbed and court action will be taken when offenders are caught, he added.

Money Believed Part Of Bank Robbery Loot

Federal, county and state officers, searching for loot in an Ohio bank robbery, found $1,176.03 in a rabbit hutch on the premises of a suspect's father in Westernport.

Albert Duaine Grove, 22, formerly of Piedmont, had been arrested at the home of his father, Scott Grove, Wood Street Extended, about 24 hours earlier on a warrant charging him with the armed robbery of the Roseville Federal Savings and Loan Association in Roseville, Ohio, Wednesday.

Grove was given a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon before United States Commissioner George Ludwig in Keyser and was held under $25,000 bond. He was removed to the Marion County Jail in Fairmont in default, pending his removal to Ohio.

Authorities said that two men, one of them masked, entered the Ohio bank while a lone employe, Mrs. Margaret Dittler, was in charge. They tied her in a closet after pointing a sawed-off shotgun at her and taking $6,226.38 from cash drawers and a safe.

Making the arrest in Westernport were Trooper M. G. Hart of the Maryland State Police, Cpl. Frank Tribett of the West Virginia State Police, Chief J. W. Griffith and Officer Burza Hanlin of the Westernport Police Department and Chief J. A. Harrison of the Piedmont Police Department.

Another man accused of the robbery led authorities to a cemetery where they recovered $2,989 of the money taken in the holdup.

Sheriff David Weissert of Zanesville, Ohio, said Louis W. Graves, 30, of Zanesville, led a group of officers and FBI agents to a spot in the Woodlawn Cemetery near Zanesville, where the money had been placed in a brown paper sack under a clump of bushes.

Later, the sheriff said, Graves led them to the bank of Jonathan's Creek near South Zanesville where a shotgun said to have been used in the holdup and an empty money box taken from the bank were recovered.

The sheriff said the FBI planned to arraign Graves on a federal bank robbery charge before U. S. Commissioner Homer E. Walter. Graves' brother, Frank Graves, 28, also of Zanesville, is sought in the robbery.

Grove will be returned to Roseville to face the federal charges. Officers said Grove had no money in his possession when he was arrested.

The search for Frank Graves last centered around Columbus, Ohio. Thomas Alexander, Zanesville, told authorities he drove Frank Graves to Columbus Wednesday night, a few hours after the holdup.

Women Protest Poor Drainage

Three women yesterday submitted letters of protest to the Allegany County Commissioners concerning poor drainage conditions in their areas which were emphasized by the high water last week.

Mrs. Anna Jones, Moscow Street, Barton, wrote that the pipe in front of her house is not large enough to carry off the water. For the past 20 years, she said, cellars have been filled with water whenever there has been high water.

Grace B. Snider stated in her letter that she had written to the commissioners July 17 about the washout from Cash Valley Road onto a public road leading from Cash Valley to the Mt. Savage Road and nothing has been done to remedy the situation.

She said it is a public road because the property of four taxpayers bound it. She concluded with a statement that the heavy rain of October 15 had cut another foot in the gorge that had been put there by an earlier heavy rain about July 15.

Mrs. Martha Duckworth, RFD 1, Frostburg, wrote that since the last heavy rain the road leading to her property in Loartown has washed so badly that it is almost impossible to bring a car over it. She said she hoped some work could be done on it before cold weather comes.

All three complaints were referred to J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor.
